ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ADJUTANT GENERAL.

When, in January, 1889, I assumed charge of this office, I found the State Guard to consist of thirty companies—twenty-nine of infantry and one of cavalry—of which two companies of infantry were colored. The whole force amounted in the aggregate to 1,459 officers and men. This force was in fairly good condition, but badly uniformed; as the Adjutant General says in his report, “But in the matter of clothing there is yet much to be accomplished. There is still a variety of dress prevailing—some of the companies having only the dress uniform, others only the fatigue.” One of my first aims was to get the Guard in uniform, and I am glad to be able to state that before the expiration of the second year I had the whole Guard in regulation uniform, and at this time every company is supplied with both full dress and fatigue. I also found that in numbers we were very much below the average of other States, and I have steadily worked for the increase of the Guard, but under great difficulties. There is a false idea entertained by some that it is best to keep the number down as low as possible. It is said that it is better to have a small number of companies with more men in each company. This would be very true if we had large cities in which whole regiments might be enlisted, but it is exceedingly difficult to maintain one good company in most of our small towns, and if the number of men per company be increased to any considerable extent some of the men must come from the country, and a company composed partially of men from town and partially of men from the country has not, as a rule, proved a success, as it is impossible to fix a time for drill that suits both. A company, however, composed entirely of men from the country may be one of the best in the Guard, as is shown by Company B, Second Regiment. So, as it is impossible to have a part of a company in one town and part in another, the only remedy is to have a good many companies scattered over the State and require them to keep up to the minimum standard, which I recommend be changed by the Legislature from thirty-two to forty men.

In this connection, I wish to call attention to a part of my report of last year, as follows:

“It is very important that the number of men in the Guard be considerably increased, in order to enable us to continue to draw the present appropriation allowed by the General Government, as the late Secretary of War, in his annual report, recommends that the appropriation be paid the States in proportion to the number of ‘organized militia,’ and not according to the number of Congressmen, as at present. Secretary Proctor says—

‘The present method of allotment of the annual appropriation of $400,000 for arming and equipping the militia, which is prescribed by the act of February 12, 1887 (24 Stats, 401), and which gives to each State an amount proportionate to its Congressional representation, is not such as to produce the best results. The aid given different States is very disproportionate. The amount of government aid received by some States is not more than half that received by others that maintain double the number of men in their National Guard.

‘There is no inducement for the maintenance of a greater number of militia than is actually required by the law, but rather the reverse, if economy be consulted. The allotment as now made is not based upon what the States do in return for the appropriation, but what they ought to do. It would be better to help those who help themselves. If the appropriation, or even one-half of it, was distributed upon the basis of the effective force of the National Guard maintained by the several States, it would better accomplish its purpose of encouraging that organization.”

Should the change be made it would be necessary to have about 2,600 men in the Guard, not including the Naval Artillery, in order to continue to draw our present allotment. Those States which would be benefited by the change are of course urging it.

The State Guard now consists of thirty-two companies of infantry organized into four regiments, two unattached companies of infantry, of which one is colored, one troop of cavalry, and five divisions of Naval Artillery organized into a battalion, numbering in the aggregate (including officers of the Staff Departments) 2,036 officers and men. This is an increase of 450 over the number reported in 1891 and an increase of 577 over that reported in 1889, and is indeed very gratifying, showing, as it does, that in spite of the many disadvantages we have to contend against the military spirit is on the increase, and that by proper encouragement on the part of the State in the way of increased appropriations and a recognition of the services rendered, the Guard may easily be raised to as high a standard as has been attained in any State. The Guard to-day, for service, discipline and general usefulness is in better condition than ever known in the history of the State. The introduction of the new drill regulations has been a very serious drawback for, though generally admitted to be a great improvement upon the old tactics, the changes, though apparently slight, have been very radical, and very few of the companies have been able to make themselves as perfect in drill as they were, but it is only a matter of time when they will be so, though there will never be the same precision in drill under the new tactics as under the old.

I believe the day has come when the State sees the importance of having the arm of the Executive strengthened by having a well organized militia. While I am glad to say in our own State we have not had to call upon the Guard except in a few instances, when they responded most cheerfully and their very presence prevented further trouble, still in other States during the current year the necessity and usefulness of the Guard has been constantly shown, and in every instance the Governor of the State has been able to restore order by the use of the military of his own State without having to call on the United States Government for assistance, as they have frequently heretofore had to do. The day of demagogues and small politicians who have tried to ride into power by ridiculing the usefulness of the Guard is past. They have been buried in oblivion, where it is hoped they will ever remain, and I sincerely hope the present General Assembly, composed of men who have defended the Guard from slanderous attacks, will now enact such legislation as will properly recognize the value of the Guard and somewhat compensate them for services rendered.

NAVAL RESERVE.

The interest manifested in this branch of the service is still on the increase. We now have five divisions located in the largest towns in the State, four of which are convenient to deep water. The Navy Department is doing everything possible to encourage and assist the States, but the appropriation is so small it cannot arm and equip the naval militia properly, as almost every State on the coast has one or more battalions. The Secretary of the Navy has been so kind as to lend us two breech-loading 3-inch rifles and has promised cutters, and I hope we will be able to get a monitor, to be kept at Newbern or Wilmington. I sincerely hope the Legislature will recognize this efficient branch of the service, and enable it to be put on the footing it so well deserves.

THE ENCAMPMENTS.

The encampments were held near Wrightsville on the grounds donated by the city of Wilmington, this being the first year the grounds have been used for the purpose. The encampments for 1892 were without doubt the best ever held in the State. It was at first very doubtful whether we should be able to hold them or not, as the appropriation was so limited, and as it would be necessary to incur such an expense purchasing tent floors, building kitchens, putting in pumps, etc., but as the new drill regulations had just gone into effect and the men had had very little instruction therein, it was felt to be absolutely necessary to have encampments to instruct them, the Adjutant General of the United States Army having very kindly had two army officers detailed as instructors. As the State does not own enough tents to put the whole brigade in camp at one time, to save the expense of purchasing more and reduce expenses as far as possible, it was decided to hold regimental encampments, two regiments being ordered into camp at one time. By doing this we were enabled to reduce expenses almost one-half, as the same tent floors, kitchens, sinks, stoves, pumps, etc., could be used at each encampment. As to the wisdom of this arrangement and the effective work done by the regiments your Excellency is fully aware, having officially visited and inspected both encampments. Then each Colonel was given absolute control and command of his own regiment, the Adjutant General, as the representative of the Commander-in-Chief, exercising only a general supervision of the whole camp. As in 1890, this was found to be decidedly the best plan on which to hold encampments, and I respectfully recommend that in future it be adopted entirely. The regiments having been divided into battalions becomes almost a brigade of itself, the Colonel having a general command, but the duties of drills and instruction fall principally upon battalion commanders. Even had we the means of holding it, a brigade encampment is almost useless as experienced by us in 1889 and 1891. My predecessor, General Jones, had the brigade formation abolished, but when I assumed the duties of my office in 1889 at my earnest request the brigade was re established. I have found, however, that it has been only a source of annoyance and trouble. The regiment is the unit of administration, and any command beyond that in the Guard becomes cumbersome. Even in the United States Army they have not attempted brigade encampments. In the short time allotted to the Guard in summer encampments, it is useless to attempt any brigade formations at all

The first encampment consisted of the first and second regiments, and though in camp at the same time, they were as much separated as if in different parts of the State. The First Regiment was instructed by Lieut. R. P. Davis, United States Army, and the Second Regiment by Lieut. W. E. Shipp, United States Army, the latter was at this time on duty with the State Guard. Both regiments made marked improvement in drill, guard duty, and other duties of the soldier.

The second encampment consisted of the third and fourth regiments. At this encampment Lieutenant Davis was instructor of the Third Regiment and Lieutenant Shipp of the Fourth Regiment, but on the second day of the encampment Lieutenant Shipp had some misunderstanding with the Colonel of the Fourth Regiment and refused to have anything more to do with it as instructor, so the regiment had to rely entirely upon its own officers, who were fortunately well qualified to fill the positions to which they had been elected. The thanks of the State Guard are due to Captain T. W. Jones, United States Army, for the able manner in which he instructed the men in rifle practice, giving them his personal attention during the entire time, and carrying them further in practice than they were ever before. I was specially requested by the officers of the first and third regiments to incorporate in my annual report a vote of thanks tendered Captain T. W. Jones and Lieutenant R. P. Davis by these regiments for their faithful services in instructing the officers and men in their various duties as well as in drills and rifle practice.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

Many improvements will have to be made before the grounds will be at all desirable as a permanent camp, and unless the Legislature appropriates a sum sufficient to make the grounds more comfortable, it will be well to hold the encampments by regiments in different parts of the State convenient to the respective regiments. By doing this the cost will be much less, and the men more comfortable.

I respectfully recommend that the Legislature pass a law prohibiting the sale of spirituous liquors within one mile of the permanent camp when occupied by the troops. I do not make this recommendation on account of any drunkenness on the part of the troops, for during the encampments I did not see a single soldier under the influence of liquor. There was a general absence of liquor from the whole camp, and the best of order prevailed at all times; but "Lead us not into temptation" is a divine precept we will do well to follow, and to have bar-rooms stuck along the road to and from camp throws temptations in the way that I feel the men should be relieved from. With the bar-rooms removed, a good shell-road from the railroad station to camp, bath-houses for the use of the men, a good grass sod on the entire camp-ground, and a few shade trees on company streets, I feel sure that in a few years we would have a camp-ground of which any State might be proud. If it can possibly be done, I respectfully recommend that the present camp-ground be exchanged for the one heretofore used by the troops, as the present ground cannot, I am sure, be occupied with any comfort for several years.

THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

In connection with future encampments I respectfully recommend, instead of an encampment in 1893, that a portion of the troops be carried to Chicago. I recommend that for this purpose a provisional regiment consisting of twelve companies be made up by selecting the best three companies in each regiment and taking the best men from the other companies so that each company will have at least sixty men. By doing this we will have a regiment of nearly one thousand men that will be an honor to the State, and it will be an incentive to the officers and men to strive to be chosen as a part of the command and will have a good effect in many ways. I further recommend that the Inspector General, the United States officer on duty with the State Guard and the Colonels of the respective regiments be appointed to select the companies and the men to constitute the regiment. The annual appropriation for encampments should be made available for use in defraying part of the expenses. I hope the United States Government will assist, and I have the assurance that the Columbian Exposition will pay part of the expenses. Aside from reflecting great honor upon the State, the information and instruction gained will be invaluable to the men, not only as soldiers but as citizens of this great country. I am sure the instruction gained in this way will be far superior to that to be gained by an ordinary encampment at home, as the men will not only be associated with the troops of other States, but will have the direct supervision and instruction of the United States Army officers.

ANNUAL APPROPRIATION.

I respectfully recommend that the annual appropriation of $250 be allowed to each company that complies with all the laws and regulations governing the State Guard, the term company being understood to apply to troops of cavalry and divisions of naval artillery. As the law now stands each company gets $250 per annum, provided the number of companies shall not exceed thirty. We now have thirty-nine companies (including troops and divisions), but the number that have complied with the law, orders and regulations will not exceed thirty, so the amount paid out would not have been increased this year, had the law been as I recommend. The recommendation is made only to provide for the future.

The orders and regulations should be rigidly enforced, and no company which fails to conform strictly to them should, under any circumstances, be paid the appropriation.

In this connection, I will quote Section 2 General Orders, No. 3, Series of 1888, which is still in force: "To entitle a company to receive the annual appropriation, the monthly report of the regimental commander must show that each company has paraded regularly every month as required by law, and that the average attendance at said monthly parades equals seventy-five per cent. of the minimum number of men required by statute for a company. And in addition thereto such company shall parade, at its annual inspection by the Inspector General, at least seventy-five per cent. of its muster-roll."

The Inspector General has made a very full report of his year's work, in which he shows that all companies in the Guard were inspected except Company D, Fourth Regiment, and Company H, First Regiment. The former was not inspected on account of the bad health of its Captain, who wrote the Inspector General that he was not able to prepare his command for inspection. As under these circumstances, it was the duty of the senior Lieutenant to prepare the company, and as it was not so prepared, the Inspector General recommends that this company be debarred the annual appropriation.

Company H, First Regiment, was accepted so late in the season that it was not deemed necessary to inspect it. All of the companies inspected turned out the full seventy-five per cent. of their muster-rolls, except Company A, First Regiment, and Company A, Second Regiment. As the former was afterwards disbanded and reorganized, it would not have been entitled to the appropriation any way. The annual appropriation has been paid to such companies only as were recommended by the Inspector General.

REPORTS.

In regard to the monthly reports, I am sorry to say that while those of the Second and Fourth Regiments have been received promptly at the end of each month, and those of the Third Regiment—except from the delay incident to change in regimental commanders—equally as promptly, I have not received any reports from the First Regiment.

The annual reports of regimental commanders have all been received and are published with this report.

Our State Guard Regulations have always required the Colonels of regiments to make all reports direct to the Adjutant General.

The Brigadier General was, previous to this year, required to visit the troops and make an annual report; but the Regulations, adopted April 14, 1892, which was prepared by a board of officers convened for that purpose, relieve the Brigadier General from visiting the troops and from making any report whatever, though that officer is still furnished one hundred dollars per year for postage and other expenses of his office.

On the 3d of December I received from the Brigadier General, by registered mail, an official letter, of which the following is a true copy:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE,

NORTH CAROLINA STATE GUARD.

TARBORO, N. C., November 29, 1892. ■

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN. Adjutant General of N. C. S. G., Greensboro, N. C.:

SIR — Not having been officially informed of anything that has transpired in the North Carolina State Guard during the past year I cannot make a report. I learned from the newspapers that there was an encampment of the State Guard during the past summer, but not being in command, have nothing to report. I would suggest, however, that in future, whenever the Guard is ordered into camp, that the Line Officers be permitted to command the same, and Staff Officers be required to attend to the duties of their respective positions.

Respectfully,

(Signed) JOHN W. COTTEN.

Brigadier General.

This letter, while intended no doubt simply as a cut at the Chief-of-Staff, shows a spirit of insubordination to the orders of the Commander-in-Chief. All orders are issued by order of the Commander-in-Chief, who has authority under the law to order encampments by regiments or companies, or even of parts of companies if he so elect, and to order whomsoever he may see proper to command the same. All general orders are sent to brigade and regimental headquarters and to the chiefs of the several departments as soon as issued. These are intended for the use of the officers to whom they are sent and for distribution, regimental commanders distributing to the officers of their respective regiments, the brigade commander and chiefs of departments to the officers of their respective staffs. This is the custom adopted in the United States Army. In every instance orders have been mailed to the Brigade Commander immediately after publication. General Orders, No. 8, clearly shows that the Chief-of-Staff was not in command during the encampments held this year, as he simply represented the Commander-in-Chief; while each regiment had a separate camp, and was entirely under command of its own Colonel, who alone was responsible for the drill, discipline and conduct of his own camp. The Chief-of-Staff was charged with exactly the same duties at this encampment as at the encampment in 1891, when the Brigade Commander was present and in command. The orders in the two cases are identical in wording.

REGULAR ARMY AND NATIONAL GUARD.

I am glad to say the cordial relations existing between the United States Army and the National Guard are steadily increasing, and the Secretary of War and Adjutant General of the Army are doing all in their power to promote the efficiency of the troops of the different States. In January last Lieutenant W. E. Shipp, of the 10th Cavalry, was detailed on special duty with the State Guard. This officer was assigned to duty in the Adjutant General's Department and to instruct the companies in drill and rifle practice, and was afterwards detailed to assist the Inspector General, to whom he was of great assistance. In October, at his own request, he was relieved from duty with the State Guard, and Captain T. W. Jones, of the 10th Cavalry, who had rendered such valuable and efficient service as instructor at the summer encampments, was assigned to duty in his stead. As the services of this officer will be of inestimable value to the Guard, I respectfully recommend that a law be enacted allowing him his actual and necessary expenses when traveling under orders of the Commander-in-Chief within the limits of the State.

NEEDED LEGISLATION.

As I am specially charged under section 3275 of The Code to make to the General Assembly such suggestions for the improvement of the Guard as I deem proper, I respectfully suggest that, in addition to what I have heretofore recommended, the following be also enacted:

So much of section 3258 of The Code as reads, "All enlistments therein shall be for five years," to be amended to read, All enlistments therein shall be for three years.

So much of section 3285 of The Code as reads, "The minimum standard of a company shall be thirty-two," to be amended to read, The minimum standard of a company shall be forty.

Section 3257 of The Code to be amended by adding, And provided further, That the State Guard, or any part thereof, when ordered out for service to assist the civil authorities in maintaining or restoring order, shall receive pay for each day's actual service as follows: Officers, the same as officers of like grade in the Army of the United States; enlisted men, actual necessary expenses and one dollar and fifty cents per day for first sergeants, one dollar and forty cents per day for sergeants, one dollar and twenty-five cents per day for corporals, and one dollar per day for musicians and privates.

So much of section 3250 of The Code as reads, "And furthermore shall be turned over to serve as private soldier in the regular army of the United States at the discretion of the court-martial, not exceeding double the term of time which he had been called out to serve in the militia," to be stricken out.

So much of section 3288 as reads, "Not, however, exceeding two thousand men in any one year, into camp or camps to be designated by him, for a period not exceeding ten days in any one year, for instruction, and in order to defray the expenses of such camp of instruction, he is authorized to draw annually upon the Treasurer of the State for an amount not to exceed five thousand dollars," to be amended to read, Not, however, exceeding two thousand five hundred men in any one year, into camp or camps to be designated by him, for a period not exceeding ten days in any one year, for instruction, and in order to defray the expenses of such camp or camps of instruction, he is authorized to draw annually upon the Treasurer of the State for an amount not to exceed ten thousand dollars.

Section 3289 of The Code to be amended to read: The Governor is authorized to pay to each duly organized company of the State Guard, which complies with all the requirements of the law and regulations, the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars per annum for payment of armory rent and other necessary expenses: Provided, said companies shall be located on or near the lines of communication by railroad, steamboat or telegram.

A law authorizing the Commander-in-Chief to draw upon the Treasurer of the State for such amount of the annual appropriation for encampment as may be necessary to assist in defraying the expenses of the attendance of one provisional regiment of twelve companies of the Guard at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893, this in lieu of an encampment for that year.

CONCLUSION.

In closing this my four years term of office, I must thank my brother officers for the uniform kindness and courtesy extended me. With few exceptions, I have received their most cordial support in all my efforts to advance the interests and welfare of the Guard. I have tried to do my duty without fear or favor, and by so doing have incurred the enmity of a few whom I have been compelled to report for neglect of duty; but with few exceptions I have found all not only willing but eager to do their duty promptly and efficiently and to leave no stone unturned to promote the interests of the service.

In parting with you, our Commander-in Chief, I but voice the sentiment of the entire Guard when I say it is with sincere regret. You have ever been a true friend to the Guard. Not only having done everything in your power to advance its interests while Commander-in-Chief, and, previously, while a member of the Legislature during several sessions, but back in the past, when the Guard received no assistance whatever from the State, you, as a private citizen, paid the expenses of an entire encampment out of your own private purse. Such friendship and generosity will never be forgotten, but will be handed down as long as there shall be a State Guard.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Inspector General's Department,

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 1, 1892.

To the Adjutant General of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.:

SIR—I have the honor to submit herewith the official report of this department, including that of Lieutenant Shipp, U. S. A., who was attached to it during the summer, for the year 1892.

In compliance with General Order No. 7, May 24, the Annual Inspections by Lieutenant Shipp and myself began with Company G, Third Regiment, June 23, and concluded with Company E, Fourth Regiment, October 31, 1892.

The Official Roster of the State Guard at the beginning of the present year showed a list of thirty-four (34) companies, and one division of Naval Artillery, which were lettered and assigned as follows, viz.:

First Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G—7.

Second Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G—7

Third Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, I—8

Fourth Regiment, Companies A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, K—9.

One Company of Cavalry (unattached)—1.

One Division of Naval Artillery—1.

One Company of Infantry (independent)—1.

One Company of Infantry (colored) unattached—1.

The companies when paraded for inspection mustered as follows, viz.:

Relative standing of Companies in accordance with figures of efficiency:

1st Company G, Second Regiment.	17th Company D, Second Regiment.
2d Company A, Fourth Regiment.	18th Company F, Third Regiment.
3d Company B, Second Regiment.	19th Company C, Second Regiment.
4th Company F, Second Regiment.	20th Company F, First Regiment.
5th Company D, First Regiment.	21st Company E, First Regiment.
6th Company C, Third Regiment.	22d Company B, First Regiment.
7th Charlotte Light Infantry (Colo'd).	23d Company H, Fourth Regiment.
8th Company E, Third Regiment.	24th Company E, Fourth Regiment.
9th Company C, First Regiment.	25th Company G, Fourth Regiment.
10th Company G, Third Regiment.	26th Company F, Fourth Regiment.
11th Company D, Third Regiment.	27th Company C, Fourth Regiment.
12th Company B, Third Regiment.	28th Company K, Fourth Regiment.
13th Company A, Third Regiment.	29th Company A, First Regiment.
14th Company E, Second Regiment.	30th Company A, Second Regiment.
15th Company G, First Regiment.	31st Company B, Fourth Regiment.
16th Company I, Third Regiment.

The above ratings of a majority of the companies are apparently low, but it must be borne in mind that the new drill regulations were not issued and put into effect until late in the spring, and those companies not having sufficient time to perfect themselves in all the evolutions omitted the extended order, and were therefore marked 0. Company E, Fourth Regiment, was marked 0 on books and papers, as none had ever been furnished them, which of course reduced their standing still lower.

A. L. SMITH, Colonel and Inspector General.

At the annual inspection of the companies comprising the North Carolina State Guard, I find upon investigation the following important requirements, which have been neglected, and it is earnestly recommended that commanding officers note carefully the comments made and take steps to have them remedied.

INSPECTION OF FIRST REGIMENT, 1892.

COMPANY A.

Not provided with required books: discharges not reported to regimental commander; copies of Guard Manual and Riot Drill not accessible to members: reloading shells not preserved: no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; no secret alarm signals; men not instructed in most important trumpet signals laid down in paragraph 573, State Guard Regulations.

COMPANY B.

Armory at inspection and arrangements for care of property not suitable (temporary arrangement): not provided with required books; files of orders missing.

COMPANY C.

Not provided with required books; orders missing; reloading shells not preserved; instruction in sighting drills not given; important trumpet signals not understood.

COMPANY D.

Required books not provided; orders missing; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY E.

Required books not provided: arms and equipments not insured: not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY F.

Armory built of wood (generally suitable, however); required books not furnished; orders not in possession of company; discharges not reported; reloading shells not preserved; no record made of public property taken from armory; secret alarm signals not arranged; important trumpet signals not taught.

COMPANY G.

Discharges not reported to regimental commander: reloading shells not preserved; instruction in sighting drills, etc., not given; secret alarm signals not arranged; not instructed in important trumpet signals; not provided with required books.

INSPECTION OF SECOND REGIMENT.

COMPANY A.

Arms and equipments not insured; required books not furnished; no orders on file.

COMPANY B.

Armory of wood, and not very good, but best that can be procured; required books not furnished; discharges not reported; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY C.

Discharges not reported; reloading shells not preserved; instruction in sighting drills, etc., not given; not instructed in important trumpet signals; required books not furnished.

COMPANY D.

Required books not furnished; discharges not reported; orders not posted on bulletin board; instruction in sighting drills, etc., not given; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY E.

Discharges not reported; not instructed in important trumpet signals; required books not furnished.

COMPANY F.

Discharges not reported; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.: not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY G.

Armory of brick, but not very secure, about the best that can be had at present; expect to have permanent quarters another year; discharges properly reported; required books not furnished; reloading shells preserved; not instructed in sighting drills, or fully in important trumpet signals.

INSPECTION OF THIRD REGIMENT.

COMPANY A.

Required books not provided; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; no schools for officers and non-commissioned officers held; not instructed in important trumpet signals; guns all unserviceable.

COMPANY B.

Required books not provided; discharges not reported; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; armory not suitable at time of inspection.

COMPANY C.

Required books not furnished; orders not promptly received; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY D.

Required books not furnished; reloading shells not preserved; very little instruction given in sighting drills, &c.; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY E.

Required books not furnished; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, &c.; no schools for officers and non-commissioned officers; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY F.

Required books not furnished; discharges not reported; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY G.

Required books not furnished; discharges not reported; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, &c.; secret alarm signals not arranged; not instructed in important trumpet signals; cartridge boxes of obsolete pattern.

COMPANY I.

Required books not furnished; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, &c.; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

INSPECTION OF FOURTH REGIMENT.

COMPANY A.

Required books not furnished; reloading shells not preserved.

COMPANY B.

Required books not furnished; discharges not reported; instruction in sighting drills, &c.; not instructed in important trumpet signals; no suitable armory in the town.

COMPANY C.

Required books not furnished; arrangements for care of public property bad; guns all unserviceable: reloading shells not preserved; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY D.

No inspection.

COMPANY E.

Required books not furnished; armory in iron building and secure; no instruction in sighting drills or trumpet signals.

COMPANY F.

Required books not furnished; full report not at hand, but regulations generally not well complied with.

COMPANY G.

Required books not furnished; armory of wood, but best to be had; property not insured; discharges not reported; reloading shells not preserved; no instruction in sighting drills, etc.; no regular school for officers and non-commissioned officers; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

COMPANY H.

Required books not furnished; arms and equipments not insured; armory in brick building and secure.

COMPANY K.

Required books not furnished, and old ones all destroyed or misplaced; there was no property book, and it was impossible to ascertain if they had all in their possession which had been issued; I made several efforts to get a duplicate of same, but without success: their arms are not insured, and the men are permitted to take their uniforms to their homes in the country; do not appear to have complied with the regulations.

SCOTLAND NECK MOUNTED RIFLEMEN.

Required books not furnished; not instructed in important trumpet calls: reloading shells not preserved: saddle blankets and clothing moth eaten.

FIRST DIVISION OF NAVAL ARTILLERY.

Required books not furnished; reloadingshells preserved; arms insured; no instruction given in sighting drills with rifle; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

FAYETTEVILLE INDEPENDENT LIGHT INFANTRY.

Not inspected.

CHARLOTTE LIGHT INFANTRY.

Required books not furnished; not instructed in important trumpet signals.

Showing an increase of two Companies, one Division of Naval Artillery, and the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry re-attached to the State Guard by General Order No. 10, June 14, C. S., making an increase of 378 men. While the above shows a considerable increase in numbers, I cannot say it indicates a proportional increase in efficiency—on the contrary, with a few exceptions, the companies have gone backward instead of forward, and are far from the standard they had attained in 1891. There does not appear to be the same amount of discipline and interest formerly prevalent, and to my mind, the whole Guard needs a reorganization and new life instilled into it. The causes for the above state of facts are numerous, and I would here most respectfully call particular attention to the report of Lieutenant Shipp, setting forth remedies and making recommendations to overcome the same. As this most accomplished and efficient officer (who has been my assistant during the inspection and at both camps) has so thoroughly gone over the ground and shown the true status and needs of the Guard (he having visited nearly every company during the year, and seeing them all in camp, thereby being in a position to express his opinion), I cannot do more than endorse fully his recommendations and suggestions, and trust that they may be given the due consideration they are entitled to.

In compliance with General Order No. 8, May 27, C. S., ordering two encampments, the first from the 21st to the 29th of July inclusive, and the second from the 4th to the 12th of August inclusive, I reported for duty on the morning of the 20th of July and, accompanied by Lieutenant Shipp, carefully inspected the camp, which was located on the new grounds, the property of the State, half a mile west of Wrightsville station and facing the inlet. I found the camp well laid off, but the grounds were not in proper condition for the health and comfort of the men, and not suitable as yet for parade purposes. The hospital accommodations were poor and inadequate, and kitchen and stores entirely too small. The sinks were the best we have ever had, and fairly well kept. The most serious drawback we had was, no bath-house was provided for either officers or men. This necessarily compelled the men to go to a great deal of extra expense, going back and forth to the beach. I was informed that on account of the appropriation running out, the above necessities were left off.

Company G, 1st Regiment, arrived on the afternoon of the 20th, and the remainder of the Regiment, excepting Company E, with Field and Staff (no band), commanded by Lieutenant Colonel; also entire Second Regiment full, Field and Staff and Band, arrived on the morning of the 21st, and immediately took possession of their respective camps. A detachment of the First Division Naval Artillery, also one of Regulars from Fortress Monroe, arrived on the morning of the 21st. At 12 o'clock Camp Holt was formally opened by a salute from the Naval Artillery and hoisting the National and State colors in front of General Headquarters. Both Regiments made their guard details and formally began the work before them. Lieutenant Davis, Second Artillery U. S. A., was assigned to the First, and Lieutenant Shipp, Tenth Cavalry U. S. A., was assigned to the Second Regiment as Advisor and Instructor, whilst Captain Jones, Tenth Cavalry U. S. A., senior officer present, assumed a general supervision of both camps, and gave his special attention to instruction in sighting, handling and target firing, a most important branch for volunteers. By the untiring patience and zeal of these most efficient officers the progress was very marked, as the officers and men generally showed they had not familiarized themselves with the New Drill Regulations, the drilling being by battalion and the Majors all new men, it can be seen what an undertaking was before them, but they worked faithfully and deserve great credit for the progress made. The guard mounting was very poor at the beginning, but was fair at the close. Great improvement was made in the drills, both company and battalion. The parades were very good. The practical instructions given by the army officers were invaluable, as shown by the improvement from day to day.

On July 26 the Commander-in-Chief visited the Camp unofficially, and received the officers. On the 28th he reviewed the two Regiments, commanded by Col. W. C. Jones; the march past was fairly good, some of the officers saluting improperly and some not at all.

August 3, I again reported for duty, and inspected the Camp preparatory to its occupancy by the Third and Fourth Regiments. The Quartermaster General had put it in as good order as circumstances would admit, and on the morning of the 4th both Regiments arrived, Companies D and E of the Fourth not reporting, Company B of the Fourth Regiment with about twenty men, and Companies B, C and G of the Third with about the same number.

They immediately took possession of their quarters and began the regular routine of camp life. Camp was regularly opened at 12 o'clock, by a salute from a detachment of Naval Reserves and hoisting of the National and State colors. Lieutenant Davis, U. S. A., was assigned to the Third, and Lieutenant Shipp, U. S. A., to the Fourth Regiment, and Captain Jones, U. S. A., performed the same duties as during the first encampment. The companies, as a rule, showed having had more instruction than those of the first encampment, but the progress was not as great. Having taken sick on the 6th the duties of this department were performed by Lieutenant Shipp. He reported the guard mounts very poor, and sentries not properly instructed as to their duties. This ignorance is due mainly to the fact that the men do not receive the proper instructions from the officers before going on duty. Both camps were thoroughly inspected daily, and with the exception of one company, were not kept as neat and uniform as I would like to see. Each company should be provided with cots, and arrange gun-racks in each tent, so their guns will be always in place, and give uniformity to the camp. The policing was fairly good. On the 9th the Commander-in-Chief again visited the camp unofficially, and received the officers. On the 11th he reviewed the two Regiments, commanded by Col. J. T. Anthony. As I was not present I cannot comment on their march past. As a whole, there was a great deal of valuable instruction given at both encampments, and some good hard work, but they were not as successful as former ones, owing, I suppose, to the fact that the men were tired of the same place and the excessive heat on the coast at that season of the year. I cannot recommend that another be attempted at Wrightsville, not for several years, at least, certainly not until the grounds are put in proper condition, and a cooler season selected. It was demonstrated last summer that the best portion of each day was virtually thrown away, on account of the heat. There was a good deal of sickness (none serious, I am glad to report). It is very evident that encampments by regiment are the most desirable, especially, since the regiments are supposed to be large, and in the future, I should recommend for the next encampment, at any rate, that each regiment be encamped separately, at the most convenient point to it. This would give the different sections of the State an opportunity to see our Citizen Soldiery, and thereby create more interest in them. And I further recommend, in order to comply with the New Regulations, that the State Guard be reorganized into three regiments of ten companies each, instead of four battalions, you might say, as at present. There should be at least three battalions, of three companies each, to a regiment, and furthermore, that no assistance from the State be given to any new company until the thirty receiving the annual appropriation be fitted out complete. In my opinion, it would be best to spend all we have on those to make them more servicable, than to be getting in new ones, and none thoroughly fitted out. These companies, nearly all need new guns, new fatigue uniforms, and all the regulation webbing, belts and blankets. None of them are equipped for actual service, and I desire here to call attention to the excellent report of Captain Jones, Tenth Cavalry U. S. A., setting forth the needs of a company for actual service. It is recommended that the term of company officers be two years instead of one as at present, and that of enlisted men at three years instead of five, and that an honorable discharge be furnished each man, and be published in orders. Also, that a system of collecting fines and dues be inaugurated, whereby they can be collected by civil authority. That no new arms or equipments be furnished any company until it shows its appreciation and responsibility sufficiently to take proper care of the same. During the annual inspections I have had the unpleasant duty of reprimanding company commanders for permitting men to appear with guns in such a foul condition that it was with difficulty the bayonets could be taken off. In the future I recommend, that in addition to a low mark for such negligence, a fine be imposed, deducted from their appropriation, and that new guns be issued as soon as practicable, to replace the obsolete ones now in use. I find that there are only a few companies who pay proper attention to target practice, one of the most important requisites, and, in the future, this should bear a good per cent. in their ratings on annual inspections.

I would furthermore recommend, that in future no new companies be admitted into the State Guard until they were visited by some officer, assigned by the Commander-in-Chief, and found to have complied with the laws governing the admission of new companies, and been regularly mustered into service.

The discipline and conduct of the men in camp was very gratifying, as they were truly volunteers, receiving no compensation whatever for their services. Such being the case, is the cause of wholesale changes in the personnel of the companies in camp from year to year. Those who attend one and get the roughness worn off drop out before the next one, and it is composed almost entirely of recruits. Some measure, as I previously suggested, should be adopted to make them more interesting and induce the men to attend year by year.

The New Regulations do not appear to have been complied with in any respect, specially paragraphs 461, 462 and 463, which are very important, as I find the old books have never been properly kept, and in addition to those provided for a book should be furnished in which should be kept an account of all moneys received from the State and a statement on them showing what disposition has been made of the same, this book, with the others, to be open to the inspecting officer.

The thanks of the entire Guard are due to the three army officers for their valuable information and strenuous efforts to impart it to both officers and men. Mine are especially due to Lieutenant Shipp, who has rendered me invaluable assistance during his entire service in our State, also to Major Robert S. Young and Captain F. L. Mears, Assistant Inspectors, for the faithful performance of all duties assigned them.

The past year has shown very conclusively we must have a thoroughly organized and equipped State Guard, and it is to be hoped North Carolina will keep pace with her progressive sister States and look with pride upon hers.

Yours very respectfully,

A. L. SMITH, Inspector General.

REPORT OF QUARTERMASTER GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,

Office of Quartermaster General,

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 21, 1892.

BRIGADIER GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General State of North Carolina.

SIR—I have the honor to submit the following report of the Quartermaster's and Ordnance Departments for the fiscal year, ending December 1, 1892.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

The annual appropriation by the General Government for the equipment of the National Guard is entirely inadequate, and it has been the work of this department to use the apportionment for North Carolina in providing for the State Guard only such articles as are of most practical and actual use. The entire appropriation was therefore drawn in dress coats, blouses, trousers, helmets, forage caps, blanket bags, haversacks, canteens, rifles, ammunition and cloth for officers' clothing; and the issues of these articles have equipped our State Guard about as well as the troops of any other Southern State. The New Regulations which wisely prescribed the same uniform as is worn by the Regular Army of the United States have saved a great deal of expense to the companies, as the clothing is now drawn made up at about the same cost as has heretofore been the material alone, and there is no expense of making to be borne by companies. It is hoped that the National Guard appropriation shall be increased by Congress, so that the officers of the Guard may be equipped as are the enlisted men—without expense to them. It is well known that the commissioned officers bear a large part of the burden of expense for the maintenance of the companies, and it is not right or reasonable that they should be obliged to pay for all their personal equipments and for the making of their uniforms. Every company in the Guard is now supplied with a complete equipment of both full-dress and fatigue uniforms, and each enlisted man will soon be supplied with two pairs of regulation trousers.

The annual appropriation by the Government to North Carolina for the equipment of the State Guard is $10,135.73, and this amount is placed to the credit of the State, at Washington, on the first day of July of each year to be drawn only in clothing, arms, accoutrements, and other military stores. Of this amount for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1893, there now remains to the credit of the State about $1,200, which will be drawn out at once in standard cloth for uniforms, of which a very large part is now due to Pettibone Manufacturing Company for advances which they have kindly made to North Carolina during the year before the appropriation was available. The State will still have on hand a limited quantity of cloth for officers' uniforms which will be issued as may be needed.

It is desired, as soon as possible, to complete the equipment of overcoats and leggins, with the addition of a good, serviceable, double-blanket and rubber poncho to each man, as these articles are greatly needed when the men are upon active duty.

ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT.

In the lack of sufficient funds to supply the Guard with new Springfield rifles, which have been greatly needed for several years, it has been the effort of the department to lessen the deficiency as much as possible by keeping in serviceable condition the guns now in use. An experienced Ordnance Sergeant has been kept at the Arsenal, when necessary, to put in thorough repair every damaged rifle that was sent in. All companies have been urged to turn in for repairs every gun that was in any way damaged or unserviceable.

From the appropriation 160 new rifles were drawn, and these are nearly all issued in replacing arms which were hopelessly injured.

The expenditure of ammunition has been considerably increased this year on account of the special attention given to target practice. This is the most practical drill of a soldier, and the Guard of this State will compare favorably in marksmanship with the troops of any other State. The Arsenal is fully supplied with all useful material for target practice, including the Laidly improved revolving targets, and the steel figures for long-range skirmish drill. The efficient instruction given the Guard in the encampments this year by Captain T. W. Jones, of the Tenth United States Cavalry, who had been specially detailed for this service, were of the greatest possible value to the men, and have created an enthusiastic desire throughout the Guard for the attainment of more efficiency in handling the rifle. In the target competition for the "Walters Trophy" Company B, Second Regiment, was the victor.

CAMP HOLT.

The annual encampments were held this year, for the first time, upon the State grounds at Wrightsville. The First and Second Regiments were in camp from July 20-29, and the Third and Fourth from August 4-12. During both encampments there prevailed a season of unusually hot weather, and the entire absence of shade trees, with the added discomfort of deep and heavy sand, made the troops pine for the cool shade and strong grass which they had enjoyed for several years at Kenmore. Immediately upon arrival of the troops at camp, regulation light white helmets were issued to every officer and enlisted man, and the relief which they afforded proved very grateful to the men when exposed to the sun.

It is generally conceded by the Guard that the permanent camp grounds will require a vast expenditure of money before they can be made satisfactory for an encampment, and unless the State will make the necessary appropriation for improving the site, it may not be advisable to attempt to hold future encampments at that place.

The expenses of the encampments this year were much greater than were expected, from the fact that new tent-floors, pumps, stoves, kitchens and tables were needed, and a large amount of work was compelled to be done on the parade ground. Besides, the space occupied by the camps was about six times as large as in former encampments, and thus the expense of daily attention to the grounds was greatly increased. The camp is located about half a mile from the railroad station, and as the Sea Coast Railroad Company had failed to lay the spur-road into the grounds, which was promised by it to Governor Fowle, all stores and supplies were hauled over this distance through the deep sand, in carts. This work was tedious and unsatisfactory, and consumed several hundred dollars of the encampment fund, which is, at best, altogether insufficient for its purposes. These numerous and heavy expenses deprived the camp of some comforts which had been previously enjoyed, one of the main privations being a necessary reduction of the supply of ice to about one-third the quantity issued during former encampments. Fortunately there was very little sickness to require an increased supply of medicines, and the health report is the most satisfactory of all encampments.

As a whole, both encampments were well attended, and a large amount of very valuable work was done by officers and men in promoting the efficiency of the State Guard. The troops generally endured the intense heat, sand-flies, mosquitoes and other discomforts with commendable patience, fully realizing that the officers in command were doing all in their power that was possible to be done for their comfort with the limited funds available.

Too much praise cannot be given to the railroads of the State for the prompt, comfortable, efficient and safe manner in which the troops were transported to and from the encampments. Cars were ready on time at all designated points, with ample provision for baggage and other camp stores. No accident occurred, nor was there any loss or damage of property belonging to the State.

The large pavilions on the ground were used for regimental mess-halls, hospital and storage of quartermaster's and ordnance supplies. The pavilions are yet without floors, owing to lack of funds for the work, and thus their value and comfort when completed cannot now be fully realized. The water for all purposes was furnished by nine pumps, driven about twenty feet deep into the sand; and the supply was abundant, and of a very good quality.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS' REUNION.

When the second camp broke the Quartermaster General was instructed in Special Orders to turn over the grounds, with tents and other property, to Colonel E. D. Hall, to be used by the Confederate Veterans' Association in a four-day encampment of the old soldiers. This reunion of the veterans brought together about nine hundred men, and the occasion was greatly enjoyed by them, mainly by reason of the liberality and unceasing kind attention and service of the people of Wilmington in their behalf. The Quartermaster General remained on the ground throughout the reunion to aid Colonel Hall in his work, and to have a general oversight of all State and Government property.

THE STATE ARSENAL.

The State Arsenal is conveniently situated in the southwest corner of Capitol Square, in Raleigh. Under the prudent direction of Governor Holt and his Council the building has recently been carefully repaired and improved in many ways, for the better protection of the State and Government property. The stores are all in excellent condition, every rifle being thoroughly cleaned and boxed, the tents swept, folded and tied into bundles, and all clothing is securely packed in moth-proof paper and wood cases. The Arsenal, with all Government stores therein, is under the entire control of the Quartermaster General, and any supplies that may be ordered, in cases of emergency, are forwarded immediately upon order.

PROPERTY RETURNS.

The property returns accompanying this report show (A) receipts and (B) issues of Quartermaster's stores during the year; (C) receipts and (D) issues of ordnance stores; (E) issues of cloth to officers for uniforms.

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

EUGENE G. HARRELL,

Quartermaster General.

REPORT OF SURGEON GENERAL.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,Surgeon General's Department,

- RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 1, 1892.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General of North Carolina.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit herewith the report of this department for the year 1892.

In compliance with General Orders, No. 8, there were during the year 1892 two separate regimental encampments of the North Carolina State Guard at Camp Holt, Wrightsville, N. C., each being held for the first time on the grounds donated by the City of Wilmington to the State for a permanent encampment site, the First and Second Regiments encamping together from July 21 to July 29, inclusive; and the Third and Fourth Regiments encamping together from August 4 to 12, inclusive.

In obedience to section 17, General Orders, No. 8, I was present and on duty at both encampments and, as required by section 401, Regulations of the North Carolina State Guard, made repeated inspections as to their sanitary condition, care of the sick, hospital, etc., and as also required by said section will now report on these points.

The general sanitary condition of both camps was very good. The company areas and streets were mostly cleanly kept, and the more general use than ordinary of cots instead of straw for bedding was, I think, the principal factor in the betterment, as it is almost impossible to keep loose straw from blowing around the camp in every direction. The kitchens were, as a rule, as clean as could be expected, but the ground adjoining them was frequently not as clean as it ought to have been, the waste matter being scattered around indiscriminately, but upon calling attention to it whenever it was necessary it was usually remedied promptly.

The water supply was ample—the water being supplied by numerous driven wells conveniently located. The taste and color of the water was good, but as no chemical or microscopical analyses were made, I cannot, of course, speak of it from these standpoints.

The bathing facilities were very poor, in fact, the troops had no bath-house of their own, using a small private one, simply by courtesy of the owner, which was wholly inadequate for the purpose.

Generally speaking, the food seemed ample as to quantity, quality and variety, and was mostly well cooked and served. Each regiment at each encampment mes-ed by companies in two separate pavilions. These pavilions were simply covered sheds—with neither floors nor side walls, and as the sand was very deep, at times when the wind blew it was impossible to enjoy a meal for the flying sand.

There were four sinks for each encampment—two for each regiment (one of the two for each regiment being reserved for the officers and the other for the men)—placed in the opposite direction from the prevailing winds and back of each regiment. There was also one for general headquarters conveniently located. A shed was erected over each sink as a protection from the sand and inclement weather; they were boxed, except at the back (where the excavated earth was piled up), the box seats were at a convenient height and had oval holes cut in them at convenient distances; they were screened on all sides from observation, and withal were the best arranged sinks we have ever had. The trenches were generally well policed, a layer of earth and lime being thrown over the daily deposit. It does seem, however, that there are a number of men in this world who will always endeavor to see how uncomfortable they can make themselves and others, it matters not how comfortable one may endeavor to make them; and I am sorry to say there seemed to be a great many of this class at Camp Holt. The seats and floors, without excuse, were frequently so much polluted that the men were driven to the surrounding territory, whereas a little attention to the commonest and most natural instincts of cleanliness and consideration for self and others would have prevented any such disagreeable feature.

One of the four covered sheds erected on the grounds some years ago, called a pavilion, was used as a general hospital—one large tent being pitched under it for the use of the sick and a small one for the drug-store. They were sparingly supplied with poor cots, plenty of ice, and only a limited amount of drugs and other necessary things, and altogether the sick were more uncomfortable than ever before. With no floor to the pavilion except the deep sand, and no side walls, the breezes blew the sand at will into both tents and on the sick, etc. There is a pressing need for a well arranged and stocked drug-store and hospital. At present, under existing circumstances, it would be folly to lay in a complete stock of drugs, for we have nowhere to place them or pack them when camp breaks. We, as it were, have to live medicinally from hand to mouth, and only get a little of this and a little of that, and often keep the sick waiting until we send to the city for necessary drugs. If we can do no better, I would suggest that one of the pavilions be floored and closed in and divided into a general hospital and drug-store. We can then furnish the hospital with permanent furniture, single iron bedsteads, etc., and fix up a permanent well stocked drug-store. Unless something of this kind is done, the medical department will be permanently crippled, the sick will suffer for necessary comfort and attention, and the well will fear to attend camp for fear of getting sick and receiving only half handed attention. The menial hospital duties were performed by hirelings. As the following condensed Hospital Report of both encampments will show, the general character of all the sickness, with a few exceptions, was mild, no fatal case occurring in camp.

There were a great many cases of minor troubles which were relieved by a single dose of medicine, and of which no record was kept.

The weather at both encampments was excessively hot, the insect life almost unendurable and the sand almost beyond description. These features added very much to the great discomfort of the troops. Unless there should be a great many improvements made at the present encampment site—which means a liberal expenditure of money—I do not see how it is possible to make the men comfortable, prevent unnecessary fatigue and sickness and take proper care of the men, when sick, at future encampments there.

The Hospital Stewards were conspicuous at both encampments by their absence, J. D. Nutt, Hospital Steward of Second Regiment, being the only one present, who reported to me for duty. Of course this fact also embarrassed the medical department. I would suggest that no Hospital Steward be appointed unless he consents to attend every encampment.

Before closing this report, I wish to express my thanks to the following medical officers:

Major J. A. Hodges, M. D., Assistant Surgeon-General, for his uniform courtesy, promptness and cheerfulness at all times in the efficient performance of all duties assigned him, especially in taking charge of the medical department at Camp Holt during my absence.

J. E. Malone, M. D., Surgeon of Franklin Rifles, for report of sick of First Regiment, and the efficient performance of the duties of Regimental Surgeon of First Regiment, as all the regular medical officers of that regiment were absent.

Major A. McKinnon, M. D., Surgeon of Second Regiment, and Captain N. Anderson, M. D., Assistant Surgeon of Second Regiment, for report of sick of Second Regiment, and the efficient performance of duty.

Major A. Cheatham, M. D., Surgeon of Third Regiment, for report of sick of Third Regiment and efficient performance of duty. Lieutenant R. A. Freeman, M. D., Second Assistant Surgeon of Third Regiment; Lieutenant E. R. Michaux, M. D., Surgeon Company B, Third Regiment, and Doctor B. Booth, Surgeon Company E, Third Regiment, for valuable assistance rendered by them.

Major H. M. Wilder, M. D., Surgeon of Fourth Regiment, for report of sick of Fourth Regiment and efficient performance of duty, especially as surgeon-in-charge of General Hospital at second encampment. Captain S. W. Battle, M. D., Assistant Surgeon of Fourth Regiment, for the able assistance rendered by him. Doctor F. P. Cheesborough, Surgeon Company F, Fourth Regiment, and Doctor R. H. Morrison, Surgeon Company H, Fourth Regiment, for valuable services rendered by them.

To the officers of General and Regimental Staffs I am indebted for courtesies at all times.

Respectfully submitted,

HUBERT HAYWOOD, M. D.,

Surgeon General.

REPORT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL SMALL ARMS
PRACTICE.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,Inspector General Small Arms Practice,

STAGVILLE, N. C., Dec. 28, 1892.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General N. C. S. G., Greensboro, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—Owing to sickness and absence from home, my annual report as Inspector General of Small Arms Practice has been delayed to this date unavoidably. But as I received a leave of absence from encampment service this year there is very little for me to report, except to enclose the following report of Capt. C. A. Cook, and refer you to the scores which are already in your possession. See General Orders, No. 16, alluded to in his report, which is hereto attached. I would recommend that his timely suggestion be adopted before the next encampment as to strengthening the rifle-pits, which are not wide enough, owing to the nature of the soil, although they are as wide as prescribed by rule.

As the Military Commissioner of this State, under the appointment last year of our Commander-in-Chief, Governor T. M. Holt, to attend a meeting at Chicago, Ill., of similar Commissioners of other States in the Union, I have to report that members of that Committee, including myself, again met at Chicago in October last during the dedication of the World's Fair buildings, and it was urged that every State should strive to have a full encampment of its National Guard there during the summer of 1893, as it is believed that such an encampment held during the World's Fair will be a splendid education to every Guardsman in the United States, and not cost much more to the Guard of each State than going into camp in their respective States.

This scheme I heartily concur in, and am glad to note that the bill has been introduced into Congress to defray the expenses of such an encampment, which I trust will be held, especially including the attendance of our own State Guard.

All of which is very respectfully submitted.

B. CAMERON,

Colonel and Inspector General

Small Arms Practice

North Carolina State Guard.

CAMP HOLT, July 28, 1892.

COLONEL BENNEHAN CAMERON,

Inspector General of Small Arms Practice.

SIR:—I beg to report to you that upon arrival at camp and finding you absent, General Glenn requested me to act in your stead, which I did. Thereupon I inspected the rifle-pits, targets, &c., and found them in sufficient order for use, after some little repairing, which was promptly made under the orders of Colonel E. G. Harrell. The regular practice began on Monday, 25th inst., and was concluded on the 26th, showing considerable improvement upon the part of the men over last year's practice. On Wednesday the 27th, the two regiments began to compete for the "Walters Trophy," which occupied all of Wednesday and until 12 M. Thursday. The scores have been handed in at headquarters, and, of course, the prize cannot be awarded until after the Third and Fourth Regiments shall have competed, which will be at their encampment in August. In the performance of my duties I am greatly indebted to Captain T. W. Jones, Tenth U. S. Cavalry, for his most valuable instruction and assistance, for which he is likewise entitled to the sincere gratitude of the two regiments.

I also respectfully recommend that the embankment on the rifle-pit be strengthened on the top, as several balls passed within eight or ten inches of my head.

Respectfully submitted,

C. A. COOK,

Inspector Small Arms Practice

of North Carolina State Guard,

Acting Inspector General.

REPORT OF COLONEL WOOD.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST REGIMENT N. C. S. G.,
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., December 7, 1892.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General North Carolina.

SIR:—In accordance with regulations I herewith submit my annual report for the past fiscal year.

Owing to reasons which I could not overcome, and with which you are familiar, I was not able to attend the encampment at Wrightsville with my command during the past summer. Though unable to be present myself, I feel that the regiment was in good hands in the care of Lieutenant Colonel Bogart and Majors Macon and Rodman. Colonel Bogart's report of the encampment is herewith submitted as a part of this. From it and from other sources I am glad to know that improvement was made in the practice of all soldierly duties, and that the encampment was a pleasant and instructive experience for the Guard. Since my last report the Greenville Guards disbanded, but have been reorganized and I trust will continue to be a valuable constituent in the State defense. There was also serious trouble in the Edgecombe Guards, Company A, which resulted in the disbandment of that company also, but it has been reorganized, with Captain Jeffreys in command. I am glad to welcome Captain Jeffreys' return to the State Guard. Both in council and in action he will be a great gain to the service. In reference to the trouble in Company A, I would say that by the order of the Commander-in-Chief I directed an investigation to be made by Major W. B. Rodman, Jr. His report in the matter has been forwarded heretofore. As the matter is now ended, it is needless to go into further details.

The strength of the regiment has been increased by the organization and equipment of the Franklin Rifles of Louisburg. While I have not had the pleasure of personally meeting this company I must, from my official communications with it and from what I have heard spoken of it, congratulate the regiment and the State Guard upon the accession to its ranks of so energetic and valuable a command. To Captain Hughes, its commanding officer, is especially due great praise for the vim with which he has worked to put the company in shape for service.

I would again, as in my last report, call attention to the inadequate provision made by the State for the Guard. Compelling the men to attend encampments and sending them to the same grounds each year without any compensation whatever save payment of their transportation, seems inconsistent and unjust. Some arrangement should be made by which, at least, the expenses of the men in camp may be lessened.

I would suggest that in future encampments the men should pitch their own tents and police the grounds. It would be a saving of the money heretofore spent in hiring laborers for this purpose, save time and trouble to the Ordnance Department, and be useful in accustoming the Guard to some of the real duties and occupations of army life.

I am more than ever convinced that the Guard is of the highest value to the State. While ordinarily there is apparently not much call for its services, the mere fact of its existence is a wonderful preserver of the peace. Without it I believe that many localities in the State would witness scenes of disturbance and riot, and I think that it behooves each of its members and all good citizens to work for its best welfare in every lawful way.

To the members of my staff and the several company commanders and officers I am greatly indebted for uniform courtesy and kindness. I believe the regiment is efficient for any call that may be made upon it, and I feel sure that its efficiency will continue to increase.

Very respectfully,

J. E. WOOD,

Colonel Commanding First Regiment N. C. S. G.

SECOND REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL JONES.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND REGIMENT N. C. S. G.,

WILMINGTON, N. C., December 1, 1892.

GENERAL JAMES D. GLENN, Greensboro, N. C.

DEAR SIR :—In accordance with the Regulations of the North Carolina State Guard I have the honor to submit my annual report.

As required, all the companies of my regiment have been inspected this year by some one of the Field Officers. Col. J. F. Bruton inspecting Companies F and D in June; Maj. Walker Taylor Company C in July; Maj. W. A. Johnson Company A in July; and I inspected Companies E, B and G respectively August 12, 13 and 15.

In compliance with General Orders, No. 13, I reported for duty at Camp Holt on the morning of the 21st of July.

By 5 o'clock that afternoon the seven companies composing the Second Regiment were in camp, as were all my commissioned officers save one, and he reported for duty later on.

In spite of the severely hot weather, the men did the work imposed upon them very well, and took great interest in the instructions and practice given them by Capt. T. W. Jones at the rifle-range, and by Lieut. W. E. Shipp in the extended order movements and guard duty. The two officers just mentioned were of much service to us, and as a testimony of their worth it affords me much pleasure to embody herein a resolution adopted by the officers of my command on August 24.

"We, the officers of the Second Regiment North Carolina State Guard, in meeting assembled, declare that the faithful and very efficient services of Capt. T. W. Jones and First Lieut. W. E. Shipp, Tenth Cavalry U. S. A., have proved of great benefit to us and our companies. The feeling that the instruction received from these officers is absolutely correct has gone far toward inspiring renewed zeal and an earnest desire on the part of the Second Regiment to retain the schooling imparted at this encampment.

Resolved, That our thanks are due Capt. T. W. Jones for the enthusiasm aroused in our ranks and the continued efforts made by him in advancing the standard of the regiment in small arms practice.

Resolved, That we thank First Lieut. W. E. Shipp for the earnestness and peculiar interest shown by him in instructing the officers and men in the extended order drill and guard duty. We return home better prepared to prosecute these studies than ever before.

Resolved, That we are proud to hail these gentlemen as North Carolinians of whom none are ashamed.

Be it further Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be forwarded to Captain Jones and First Lieutenant Shipp, and that our commander Col. W. C. Jones be requested to embody them in his annual report to the Adjutant General."

I give below the copy of a letter received from Col. E. G. Harrell, which I referred to Capt. S. R. Hilliard, my Quartermaster, who has proven himself to be a painstaking and efficient officer, and I embody a copy of his reply, the original of which I forwarded to Colonel Harrell.

(Copy.)

RALEIGH, N. C., September 6, 1892.

COLONEL W. C. JONES, Wilmington, N. C.

MY DEAR SIR:—On the morning that the First and Second Regiments broke camp at Wrightsville, we found that there were short in the kitchens of the two regiments utensils belonging to the stoves amounting to $46. I presume that these cooking utensils were carried off by the cooks of the two regiments. A careful examination showed that the shortage was about equal with each regiment, and these articles we were compelled to buy to supply the stoves for the encampment of the Third and Fourth Regiments. I am instructed to ask you to please collect from the Second Regiment and turn into this office $23, which is your part of the shortage. If you will kindly divide this amount among the companies that were present in such proportion as you see proper, I have no doubt it will be promptly paid.

In the second encampment, on the morning that the troops broke camp, we stationed a guard at each kitchen, and even then caught the cooks in the act of packing up the utensils belonging to the State.

In addition to the above, will you please forward at the same time $8 33, the amount due by Lumber Bridge Company for destroying one of the tents belonging to the State. I will be glad to have your early attention to these matters, as I will be compelled to report all these damaged articles to the Governor in sending in my official report.

Yours very truly,

(Signed)

E. G. HARRELL.

[Dictated.]

Quartermaster General.

ST. ELMO, N. C., September 17, 1892.

COLONEL W. C. JONES, Wilmington, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—Yours of the 10th inst. to hand yesterday: contents of letters noted.

In regard to Colonel Harrell, I send duplicate of receipt from him, also a list of articles received from him for use of Second Regiment. I turned over to Sergeant Lawhorn all the articles I receipted to Colonel Harrell for, and Colonel Harrell sent Lawhorn with me and I showed them to him in my quarters, and took Colonel Harrell's receipt for same. I was the last to leave the camp. I saw no damaged tents, as I closely examined every tent of the Second Regiment, and found them in good condition. I also examined the cooking-rooms (there was no guard but a lot of negroes that had no connection with the encampment), and if any shortage in the furniture of cooking stoves it was Colonel Harrell's neglect, for there was no guard, and he himself did not come near the quarters.

I went to see Colonel Harrell and proposed to receipt for the tents and cook stoves and furniture to same, as I had done formerly to Colonel Olds. He said I would have to receipt for such articles as I send you a list of. I had always receipted to Colonel Olds for tents, cook stoves, and everything furnished. I can't see how Colonel Harrell can demand pay of the Second Regiment, when he can't show a receipt showing that these articles have ever been received by our command. This shows clearly that it was negligence on his part.

I had under Colonel Olds taken receipt from each Captain for everything, and saw that every article was in place before I left camp.

I hope you will find the above correct and satisfactory.

Yours truly,

S. R. HILLIARD,

Quartermaster Second Regiment N. C. S. G.

I trust the new order requiring applicants for commissions in the service to be examined before they are given them will be enforced, as one of our weakest points seems to be that our commissioned officers are not as thoroughly posted in their duties as they should be. I recommend, however, that the examination at first be not very rigid.

As this is the last report that I will have the honor of making, I take this opportunity of expressing to you, the other officers at headquarters, and the officers of the different regiments, my appreciation of the kindness and courtesy which has usually been accorded me.

Sincerely hoping that the Guard may continue to improve in efficiency, I am,

Very respectfully,

W. C. JONES,

Colonel Second Regiment N. C. S. G.

THIRD REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL BOBBITT.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT N. C. S. G.

OXFORD, N. C., December 27, 1892.

GEN. JAMES D. GLENN,

Adjutant General North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C.

SIR:—In compliance with regulation, I herewith submit my report for the year 1892.

As I was appointed Colonel August 4, 1892, to fill the unexpired term of Col. S. H. Boyd, resigned, I can only report for the term of my incumbency. Since that time Company B has been called upon to render aid to civil authorities. Said company responded promptly, and did efficient service. I was in attendance at Camp Holt as Senior Officer. The camp was beneficial to my command, and the improvement marked. Both officers and men were much improved. During my brief incumbency as Colonel Third Regiment I have found the rank and file of my regiment courteous and willing, always ready and anxious to obey any command, and anxious to do their full duty. There are many things that could be added for the benefit and proficiency of the regiment, but, taking into consideration the limited means at the command of the State Guard, it is useless to mention them. I would call attention especially to the former recommendation of Col. S. H. Boyd in regard to the band, which can be found on page 168 of your report of 1891. The Third Regiment Band is a faithful, willing and efficient set of men, and should be encouraged in every way. I think the band justly entitled to some compensation. My regiment is in good shape, and is improving, I think, all the time. The officers show a disposition to make it all it should be in every way.

With many thanks for courtesies shown by yourself, I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

W. A. BOBBITT.

Colonel Third Regiment N. C. S. G.

FOURTH REGIMENT.

REPORT OF COLONEL ANTHONY.

HEADQUARTERS FOURTH REGIMENT N. C. S. G.,
CHARLOTTE, N. C., December 1, 1892.

GEN. JAMES D. GLENN. Adjutant General of North Carolina,
Greensboro, N. C.

SIR:—In compliance with The Code, I have the honor to herewith submit my annual report.

General Orders from one to twenty-two have been received and the same transmitted to the respective companies and duly acknowledged by their commanders. The companies of this regiment have all complied with the requirements in rendering their monthly reports of parades and inspection, save Company B. who failed to report for one month—which the Captain explained that he thought the report would have been taken from camp report. There has not been any cause for the use of troops within the division represented by this regiment. On May 20, the occasion of the annual celebration of the Declaration of Independence, troops from other sections of our State, as well as those from other States, were invited to be present and participate in a parade, sham battle and rifle-target contest. Those present were the Governor's Guard and Zouaves of Columbia, S. C., under command of Colonel Jones; the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, Guilford Grays, Greensboro, of the Third Regiment; Hornets Nest Riflemen of the Second Regiment; the Naval Reserves with two pieces of artillery and a company of marines, together with Companies A, B, E, G, H, K of the Fourth Regiment. General J. W. Cotten having been invited to be present and command the troops very kindly accepted, and on the formation of them assumed command. Adjutant General James D. Glenn being present reviewed the troops on the line of march, which presented a very fine appearance, this being the first formation under the New Drill Regulations. Repairing a mile south of the city the troops were divided into two commands and proceeded to take positions assigned them as per plans previously drawn. The manœuvres were highly creditable to both officers and men, and were greatly enjoyed by the large concourse of citizens who witnessed them. The very limited supply of ammunition modified the display and forced a cessation of hostilities sooner than was desired. The troops enjoyed it very much. The rifle contest was very satisfactory, and developed the fact that we have some very fine shots in the Guard. I regard the target contests as productive of much more good to the Guard than competitive company drilling. General Orders, No. 13, directing the march to Camp Holt, Wrightsville, having been received, the same was obeyed, and Companies A, B, C, F, G, H and K reported at camp on the evening of the 4th of August. Guards for camp protection were established that night. On the morning of the 5th the regular routine of camp duties was established and fully observed during the encampment. Owing to the very bad grounds on which the camp was established it was almost impossible to keep them properly policed: the sand being very dry and fine caused the camp to present an almost filthy appearance, notwithstanding the men exerted themselves in the effort to produce the desired effect. I regard the grounds as at present constituted to be totally unfit for either camping or drilling purposes. It is next to impossible for men, especially those unused to the sands of the lower country to manœuver in sand shoe-mouth deep, and the myriads of sand-flies made life a burden to the men at night, both in the tents and to the sentinels on duty. Especially was this the case when there was but little breeze. I often saw my sentinels at night with their faces and necks veiled to prevent the annoyances of these pests. The near proximity of the freshwater marshes was the cause of the great quantities of flies. More attention was paid to guard duty at this encampment than usual, and I am glad to say with very gratifying results. The men seemed to grasp the meaning of their duties which they were performing much more readily than formerly, and thereby seemed to appreciate it. I have at all times regarded sentry duty as one of the most instructive in the training of troops in camp, hence my efforts in that direction. I regard the encampment as productive of much good to the troops, and but for the disadvantages of the grounds it would have been a great success. I think some other more suitable location should be procured for the purpose by exchanging the present site for the one selected.

During the year I have visited a portion of my command and inspected them at their armories. In consequence of the change of tactics the companies did not show as well in the evolutions as by the old tactics. Extended order has been practiced more recently than any other drilling. As to the arms and accoutrements with which all the companies are now provided, with the single exception of Company H, they should be condemned and new arms supplied. They have many of them been condemned years ago. The condition of the uniforms of quite a number of the companies is bad and should be supplanted with new ones. Four years service is more than they will stand and look respectable.

As I think regimental bands of very much importance, and the next Legislature will soon convene, a bill to provide for their expenses at camp should be introduced and passed, as well as one to provide for the subsistence of the Guard. They should at least be fed if not paid while performing this service to the State; they have work to do, and do it faithfully; it is not a holiday pic-nic as some of the people of the State have asserted it to be. I have made this report more lengthy than usual, as I regard the subjects mentioned of some importance to the Guard, and thought perhaps to suggest them might do some good. I regret to be compelled to say, with the conclusion of this report will end my service to the State Guard, having been compelled to decline the position so generously offered me by the officers of the regiment and which I so highly appreciate, and so deeply regret the necessity prompting the action.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,
J. T. ANTHONY, Colonel.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS OF U. S. ARMY WHO WERE DETAILED BY THE SECRETARY OF WAR
TO VISIT AND INSPECT THE ENCAMPMENTS OF
THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE GUARD IN 1892.

FORT BUFORD, NORTH DAKOTA, September 8, 1892.

TO THE OFFICER IN CHARGE OF DIVISION OF MILITARY INFORMATION, WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report of my visit, in compliance with Special Orders, No. 143, current series, from the Adjutant General's Office, to the Camp of the North Carolina Militia, from July 21 to August 12, 1892.

On receipt of the order referred to above, I, in compliance therewith, reported by letter to the Governor of the State, and was by him instructed as follows:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
RALEIGH, June 29, 1892.

CAPT. T. W. JONES, 10th CAVALRY U. S. ARMY,
Asheville, N. C.

SIR:—In reply to yours of the 27th instant, I would request that you report to Adjutant General James D. Glenn, at Camp Holt, Wrightsville, North Carolina, on July 21, who will direct you to the discharge of such duties as may be required.

I have the honor to be very respectfully yours,

(Signed) THOMAS M. HOLT,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

On July 21, accordingly, I reported.

In the assembling of the troops in camp, it became apparent that forethought and care had been exercised in the concentration. The companies concentrated at the designated time from different points in the State, were assigned to and took their proper places in the camp without confusion or delay.

I found at the camp Second Lieutenant R. P. Davis, Second Artillery, with duties similar to my own, and under my supervision, per letter of instructions of June 20, 1892, A. G. O., and First Lieutenant W. E. Shipp, Tenth Cavalry, on duty with the North Carolina State Militia.

After a formal opening of the encampment, Adjutant General Glenn requested our assistance in instructing the troops in all military duties, especially in drill regulations, guard duty and target practice.

The encampment being by regiments, the First and Second from July 21 to July 28, and the Third and Fourth from August 4 to August 12, it was agreed, as calculated to give the best results, that Lieutenant Shipp should give particular attention to instruction in the Second Regiment in the first encampment and to the Fourth Regiment in the second encampment, in drill regulations including ceremonies, and in guard duty : that Lieutenant Davis should have corresponding duties with the First Regiment in the first encampment and the Third Regiment in the second encampment, and that I should give general attention to the instruction in both regiments in both encampments, and have charge of all target practice.

ADMINISTRATION.

The encampment was strictly regimental, the regiments being encamped entirely apart. The administration in each regiment was left entirely to its commander, Adjutant General Glenn having general supervision as the representative of the Governor.

IN THE FIRST ENCAMPMENT :

The First Regiment consisted of six companies and a total of ..	224
The Second Regiment consisted of seven companies and a total of	306

IN THE SECOND ENCAMPMENT :

The Third Regiment consisted of eight companies and a total of	261
The Fourth Regiment consisted of seven companies and a total of	241
	<hr/> 1,032

On the opening of encampments regimental commanders issued the following orders :

CAMP HOLT,
 HEADQUARTERS THIRD REGIMENT,
 LT. COL. W. A. BOBBITT, COM'D'G,
 WRIGHTSVILLE, August 5, 1892.

[SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 1.]

EXTRACT 1.—Order and calls are hereby announced to take effect at 5.20 A. M. to-day. Officers of the Guard will have the calls sounded at the guard tent.

EXTRACT 2.—Captains of companies are specially cautioned that their companies must prepare for all formations at the first call, and assemble promptly at the assembly call.

EXTRACT 3.—Drums and markers' flags will not be allowed at drill.

EXTRACT 4.—Sentinels will be required to walk posts from 8 to 10 A. M., and from 8 P. M. to reveille. Sentinel duty being one of the most important and highest duties of a soldier, all members of this command are cautioned that under no circumstances must the sentinels be tampered with.

EXTRACT 5.—Until further orders battalion commanders will have charge of all drills and instruction of their battalions.

EXTRACT 6.—All sentinels must remain in camp until relieved at guard mount by the new guard.

EXTRACT 7.—At fatigue drill the officer of the day must see that each company commander has his company grounds properly policed.

By order of Lieutenant Colonel W. A. BOBBITT.

W. R. LEAKE,
Captain and Adjutant Third Regiment.

CAMP HOLT,
HEADQUARTERS FOURTH REGIMENT,
NORTH CAROLINA STATE GUARDS,
WRIGHTSVILLE SOUND, N. C., August 4, 1892.

[ORDERS, No. 2.]

The following calls for the government of the camp are hereby established, and will be strictly observed unless otherwise ordered:

First Call, 5.20 A. M.

Tattoo, 9.30 P. M.
Taps, 10.00 P. M.

It is strictly enjoined upon both officers and men to observe the above calls and promptly obey them. At Fatigue Call the entire camp must be thoroughly policed and all litter and garbage collected and deposited conveniently for removal by carts, after which all tents must be neatly arranged and kept in perfect order.

By order of Col. J. T. ANTHONY.

G. F. RUTZLER,
Captain and Adjutant.

An order was published in the First Regiment prescribing hours for duties and roll calls, corresponding very nearly to those prescribed in the Second Regiment, but a copy of the order was not furnished me.

But two orders were issued from the General Headquarters during the encampment. The first prescribed hours for target practice and fixed the conditions of the match between companies for the Walters Trophy. The second removed certain restrictions placed, before the encampments, on dress parades.

There was no Commissary Department.

The affairs of the Quartermaster's Department and Ordnance Department were efficiently administered by the Quartermaster General, Col. Eugene G. Harrell. The annoyances incident to the Quartermaster's Department generally are proverbial. When to these are added those of the Ordnance Department in an encampment which must be established, put in running order as a permanent encampment and then broken up, all within eight days, the position becomes very trying. Colonel Harrell was, notwithstanding, always courteous and good humored. He ignored his own annoyances to give his whole time and energy to the performance of his duties and the success of the encampment.

Col. A. L. Smith filled the responsible position of Inspector General. By his daily inspections of the camps and calling attention to irregularities in the interior economy of companies and police, he contributed much to the military appearance of the camp. By his intelligent criticisms and timely suggestions on the conduct of drills and ceremonies he contributed much to the correct instruction of the troops.

ARMS.

Most of the arms are of obsolete patterns, many of them being of models previous to that of 1873. They were generally clean, but I saw frequent instances of rough handling. On the target ground many were thrown or laid down in the sand. In tents no provision was made for their care, except in Company G, Second Regiment (Capt. Thomas R. Robertson's), where neat racks at the back tent pole were provided and used.

EQUIPMENTS.

Equipments were well cared for and were in good order, but some of the cartridge boxes were of obsolete pattern.

INSTRUCTION.

At the beginning of the encampments, considering the short time since the adoption of the new drill regulations, the instruction in the manual of arms was generally very good. Little instruction, however, appeared to have been given in anything else. Some movements in the school of the company, not materially changed in the new drill regulations, were well executed. In the ceremonies the officers made mistakes and lacked confidence, and the men were awkward and unsteady in ranks, especially so at guard mounting. No instruction appeared to have been given in guard duty or target practice. During the encampments most wonderful progress was made in drill regulations, most marked in the ceremonies, dress parade and guard mounting. The officers gained that confidence hardly possible without experience, and non commissioned officers and privates exchanged in a few days the awkward bearing of recruits for the confident military bearing of soldiers. This improvement was more noticeable in the First and Second Regiments than in the Third and Fourth. The latter, though they came into camp better instructed generally than the former, did not make as much progress. This was also noticeable in military courtesy. On the first day of the first encampment but few of the enlisted men of the First and Second Regiments saluted officers in passing. During the latter part of the encampment scarcely a lapse was seen. On the first day of the second encampment probably a majority of the enlisted men saluted in passing officers, but there was about as great a per cent. of lapses on the last day as on the first. The results of instruction in guard duty were of course not so noticeable, as the men were not frequently on guard during the short period of encampment; nor in target practice, where the course had to be curtailed on account of limited time as to preclude the practicability of firing a second score at any range.

There were no formal inspections. I think there should be at least one regimental inspection during each encampment for instruction, if not necessary for any other purpose.

At the close of each encampment there was a brigade review for the Governor, the only review of either encampment. In these reviews the awkwardness and lack of confidence again appeared, more conspicuously among the officers. The alignments were generally tolerably well kept, but a number of mistakes were made by officers. In these reviews, as well as on other occasions, the men soon resumed the old touch of the elbow after being put in march.

DISCIPLINE.

It is difficult to establish a standard of comparison as to the discipline of these troops. Not in a single instance did I see that I obey-this-order-because-I-am-obliged-to manner sometimes seen in the regular service. Every duty was performed in the most willing and cheerful manner. Every officer and man seemed anxious to learn his duty and to perform it properly, and this accounts for the wonderful progress in instruction made in a few days.

The men seemed to assume, and the officers to concede, the right to be absent from camp during all hours of the day and evening when not required for duty, and, in some of the regiments, instruction in rifle firing was not considered a duty to the extent of depriving the men of this privilege. As some of the company commanders explained to me, the men were receiving no pay and were bearing their own expenses, being furnished nothing by the State except transportation to and from the encampment, and that the officers dared not be too exacting lest the men should decline to attend future encampments.

The conduct of the men was excellent. I observed no drunkenness or rowdyism in or out of camp, and as I had occasion to observe in several instances, the conduct of the men was as exemplary in moving to and from the encampments. This seemed due to the fact that the companies are composed of quiet orderly citizens, rather than to the restraints of military discipline.

TIME REQUIRED FOR MOBILIZATION AT STRATEGIC POINTS WITHIN THE STATE.

The First Regiment could be mobilized at Raleigh in about nine hours after receipt by the Colonel of orders. It would concentrate for the purpose at either Goldsboro or Weldon. Thence to Raleigh. It could be mobilized at Wilmington in about the same time, first concentrating at Goldsboro.

The Second Regiment could be mobilized at Raleigh in about nine hours, and at Wilmington in about the same time. It would concentrate by companies at points named.

The Third Regiment could be mobilized at Raleigh in about eight hours, and at Wilmington in about fourteen hours. It would first concentrate at Durham in either case. Thence to Raleigh or Wilmington.

The Fourth Regiment could be mobilized at Raleigh in about twenty-seven hours, and at Wilmington in about the same time. It would in either case first concentrate at Charlotte.

As may be seen from the foregoing, three regiments could be mobilized at the State Capital in about nine hours, and the fourth within eighteen hours thereafter. These estimates are made under the supposition that cars or trains would be available to move without regard to schedule time. The mobilization could be made at points on the seacoast with almost the same expedition as at the Capital. Other most likely important strategic points within the State are along the line of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad. Mobilization at any point along this line could be made in about the same time as required for mobilization on the seacoast.

LIST OF ARTICLES REQUIRED TO ENABLE THE ENTIRE FORCE TO TAKE THE FIELD FOR SIXTY DAYS SERVICE.

Of the articles of clothing which have heretofore been drawn on quota by the State, of arms and equipments and of tentage, the Quartermaster General of the State has on hand, together with those already issued to companies, sufficient to put twelve hundred men in the field. This is in excess of the number that can be relied on for service. Of the articles of clothing heretofore drawn there would, therefore, be required only a sufficient number (embraced in the list below) to replace such as might be worn out or otherwise become unserviceable, and other articles as follows :

C. C. & G. E.

1,100 Blankets.	1,100 Pairs Shoes.
150 Trousers.	3,300 Pairs Stockings.
150 Blouses.	140 Axes.
150 Overcoats.	140 Hatchets.
1,100 Campaign Hats.	140 Spades.
2,200 Dark Blue Flannel Shirts.	140 Pickaxes.
2,200 Knit Undershirts.	140 Camp Kettles.
2,200 Pairs Drawers.	350 Mess Pans.

Ordnance and Ordnance Stores.

220,000 Ball Cartridges.	2,200 Field Belts.
1,100 Tin Cups.	1,100 Canteens.

Commissary Property.

112 Dutch Ovens and Lids (if flour rations be issued).

PER CENT. OF EACH COMMAND THAT CAN BE RELIED ON FOR SERVICE
OUTSIDE THE STATE FOR SIXTY DAYS.

In a popular cause, regimental commanders estimate per cent. of men that can be relied on for service outside the State for sixty days, as follows: First Regiment, 80 per cent.; Second Regiment, 70 per cent.; Third Regiment, 50 per cent.; Fourth Regiment, 90 per cent. From information obtained from many of the company commanders and from other sources, I am convinced, however, that the numbers turned out by regiments for annual encampments approximates very closely the numbers which would turn out, in a popular cause, for actual service, as follows:

First Regiment.....	224
Second Regiment.....	306
Third Regiment.....	261
Fourth Regiment.....	241
Total	1,032

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

The system of messing was perhaps the best that could have been adopted under the circumstances, the encampments being of such short duration. Cooking was done and food was served by hired servants. This left every enlisted man available, every day, for other instruction. The system has the great drawback, however, of giving no instruction in these important matters to the men themselves. Circumstances might arise in service under which such a system would be impracticable.

The tents were pitched by hired laborers and were left standing when the troops marched out of camp.

The police of the camps was sufficient for sanitary purposes, but was not thorough.

The sinks were attended to by laborers employed by the Quartermaster General. The system was not satisfactory. The seats were horribly fouled.

The water supply was good and convenient.

There were no facilities available for the men bathing without expense to themselves.

Most of the enlisted men and some of the officers were in camp this year for the first time. Some of the enlisted men were scarcely drilled at all previously to the encampments, having been enrolled or substituted for men who could not attend, to fill companies to the legal minimum. There were many men of several years service, to whom criticisms as to awkwardness, etc., do not apply. The military appearance of a company is not determined by such men, but by the new men. A few awkward men will, and even one man may, spoil the appearance of a company.

RECOMMENDATIONS AND CONCLUSIONS.

Almost everything possible under present laws seems to have been done for the North Carolina State Militia.

It is recommended that obsolete arms and equipments now in the hands of these troops be replaced. If no better can be done, they should at any rate be furnished with rifles having a rear sight slide with a lateral movement to make allowance for drift and wind. Many of these now in use are without such a slide. Colonel Harrell, Quartermaster General and Chief Ordnance Officer, informed me that these guns had been repeatedly condemned by boards. I recommended that he ask for a Regular Army Inspector, submitting inventories with his request. If impracticable to get rid of these arms in this way, they should be gotten rid of in some other way. While they are really very inferior arms, the greatest harm is not due to this, but to the fact that the men have no confidence in them, and it is impossible to induce them to correct their personal errors while they attribute all errors to an imperfect arm.

The patriotism and military enthusiasm of these troops cannot be excelled. The Adjutant General of the State is the real head of the State military establishment, under the Governor. He performs the duties, as far as there are such duties in the State, of Secretary of War, General of the Army and Adjutant General. From the Adjutant General to the latest recruit, there is the same striving for military excellency. This patriotism and enthusiasm have thus far answered in place of sufficient appropriations by the State to bring the troops together annually for instruction and to the place of need in aiding the civil authorities in enforcing the laws and preserving order. Great tact and judgment, however, are required of regimental and company commanders, and especially of the Adjutant General, to keep up organization.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

T. W. JONES,

Captain Tenth Cavalry

WEST POINT, N. Y., August 15, 1892.

THE CHIEF OF BUREAU OF MILITARY INFORMATION,

Washington, D. C.,

[Through Capt. Thaddeus W. Jones, Tenth Cavalry.]

SIR:—I have the honor to report that, in accordance with paragraph 9. S. O. 143, Headquarters of the Army, A. G. O., June 18, 1892, and letter from the Governor of North Carolina, I reported about noon, July 21, 1892, to Adjutant General James D. Glenn who had general supervision of the North Carolina encampments near Wrightsville, N. C. The First and Second Regiments had been ordered to the encampment, which was to be opened on July 21. The encampment was formally opened about 3 P. M., July 21, but it was 9 P. M. before all the companies had arrived on the ground and quartered themselves in the tents which had been pitched by laborers under direction of the officers of the Quartermaster's Department and Lieut. W. E. Shipp, U. S. Army.

THE GROUNDS.

The grounds, with some improvements, would be well suited for an encampment, and the camps were laid out as shown below; each colonel being in command of the camp of his regiment.

General Glenn assigned me to duty with the First Regiment, as instructor in drill, ceremonies and guard duty; also as instructor of a detachment of the Naval Reserve and in charge of a detachment of artillery troops from Fort Monroe. I then reported to Captain Thaddeus W. Jones, U. S. Army, for his instructions, and to Lieut. Col. D. N. Bogart, commanding the First Regiment. I found that the regiment consisted of two battalions of three companies each, aggregating 224 men; that each battalion was commanded by a major and that all instruction was directly under the supervision of the majors.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION.

I conferred with the majors, and the following was the system of instruction adopted : Company Drills—each captain was to be notified in advance the nature of the drill, and any mistakes noticed by the majors or me, were to be corrected on the spot, and all of us were to be on the ground during all drills. Battalion Drills—the movements were to be selected and thoroughly discussed before the drill, and any errors made at drill by the majors were to be corrected by me at once, and other errors by the majors or me. Parades, Guard Mounting and Guard Duty—the same as the above. This system proved most satisfactory.

I called upon Col. W. C. Jones, commanding the Second Regiment, which consisted of seven companies divided into two battalions, aggregating 306 men. I found that practically the same system had been adopted by this regiment, with Lieut. W. E. Shipp, U. S. Army, as instructor.

The only work on the 21st was the arrangement of schedules and details for the following day, and a guard mounting by the Second Regiment. These schedules were somewhat modified ; and those finally adopted were as given below :

FIRST REGIMENT.		SECOND REGIMENT.
Reveille.....	5.30 A. M.	Reveille.....	5.30 A. M.
Fatigue.....	“	Fatigue.....	5.40 “
Drill.....	6.00 “	Sick Call.....	6.00 “

Supper.....	7.15 “	Supper.....	7.15 “
Tattoo.....	10.00 “	Tattoo.....	10.00 “
Taps.....	11.00 “	Taps.....	11.00 “

Work was begun in earnest on the 22d of July, and by night of that day conversation and observation had developed the following facts :

1. That the North Carolina State Guard consisted of thirty-four companies, aggregating about 1,750 men.
2. That the members of the Guard receive no pay and no rations from the State, and pay for the making of their uniforms.
3. That thirty-one of the companies had been ordered into camp.

4. That the personnel of the commands was excellent, and the men well set up.

5. That the officers, as a rule, were not so well posted as they should have been to have efficient commands.

6. That the non-commissioned officers had very little idea as to their duties.

7. That the discipline was fair.

8. That military courtesy was woefully neglected.

9. That all were very enthusiastic about their work, and had come to camp not for play, but for business (a most important consideration, and with it the battle was half won).

Drills. The drills were battalion and company close order, and company and squad extended order, with most attention given to extended order. At the beginning the companies drilled fairly well at close order, but only a few understood extended order at all. The progress made in the drills was perfectly remarkable, and when compared with that made by the United States soldiers, the comparison is in favor of the National Guard. At the end of camp the company and battalion close-order drills were good; the extended order very good.

Parades. The parades were battalion and regimental; the first ones were fair, the last very good.

Guard Duty. The officers and men were very deficient in this duty; and while good progress was made, there is still great room for improvement.

Naval Reserve. At the request of the commanding officer of the detachment, I drilled it daily at 5:30 A. M. The detachment consisted of eight men, and after three drills handled the 10-inch Rodman quite as well as the average artillery detachment.

Minor Tactics. Nothing in this line could be attempted, but the prospects for next year are good.

SECOND ENCAMPMENT.

The encampment of the Third and Fourth Regiments was formally opened at noon August 4, 1892.

The Third Regiment occupied the ground previously occupied by the First; the Fourth that by the Second. The Third aggregated 261; the Fourth, 241 men.

What has been reported above for the first encampment is true for the second, with the following exceptions: 1st, the interest seemed to decrease toward the end, the attendance at drill small, and formations much delayed: 2d, the Fourth Regiment gave very little attention to extended order drill, notwithstanding G. O. No. 11, A. G. O., c. s., 1892, relating to said drill. At the request of company and battalion commanders I took command on several occasions during both encampments.

Naval Reserve. A detachment of seven men and one officer was present at the second encampment ; it did well at the 10-inch Rodman gun drill.

I was received with the greatest cordiality, and received at all times the most courteous treatment, both from officers and men.

Respectfully submitted,

RICHMOND P. DAVIS,
Second Lieutenant Second Artillery.

GENERAL ORDERS ISSUED IN 1892.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, February 1, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 1.]

First Lieutenant W. E. Shipp, Tenth Cavalry, United States Army, having been detailed by the Secretary of War for special duty with the North Carolina State Guard, is hereby assigned to duty in the Adjutant General's Department, and will assist in the other departments whenever necessary. He will also instruct all officers and men of the State Guard in the New Drill Regulations and in Small Arms Practice, visiting the several companies at their stations for this purpose.

Company commanders are required to use every effort to have as full attendance of their respective commands as possible whenever he may visit them, giving him all the assistance desired; and all officers and men are urged to render him a hearty co-operation in the performance of the duties imposed upon him, and as an officer of the United States he will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, February 4, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 2.]

I. In order to conform to the New Drill Regulations of the United States Army, Section I, Article VII. of State Guard Regulations is hereby repealed, and the following substituted in lieu thereof :

In the cavalry—one First Sergeant ; four Sergeants ; five Corporals.

In the artillery—one First Sergeant ; four Sergeants ; eight Corporals.

The minimum standard of a company shall be forty, and the maximum standard ninety-six, commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers and privates."

II. Each regiment for the present will be divided into two battalions, to be known as the First Battalion and the Second Battalion of such regiment, but in all regimental formations the battalions will be posted as prescribed in Drill Regulations according to rank of battalion commanders. The several companies of the regiments are hereby assigned to the battalions as follows :

FIRST REGIMENT.

First Battalion.—Companies C, D, E and G.

Second Battalion.—Companies A, B and F.

SECOND REGIMENT.

First Battalion.—Companies A, C, D and F.

Second Battalion.—Companies B, E and G.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, February 11, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 4.]

A Board of Officers is hereby ordered to assemble in the office of the Quartermaster General in the City of Raleigh, at 10 A. M., Tuesday, March 22, 1892, for the purpose of revising the Regulations of the North Carolina State Guard, incorporating therein the changes rendered necessary to conform to existing orders, Laws of the State and Regulations of the U. S. Army, and recommending such changes as they may deem necessary for the good of the service, subject to the approval of the Commander-in-Chief.

The Board of Officers will be composed as follows:

Col. A. L. Smith, Inspector General; Col. J. T. Anthony, Colonel Fourth Regiment; Col. E. G. Harrell, Quartermaster General; Lieut. Col. J. F. Bruton, Lieutenant Colonel Second Regiment; Maj. S. W. Cramer, Lieutenant Commander Naval Artillery; Capt. W. B. Rodman, Jr., Captain First Regiment; Capt. B. S. Royster, Captain Third Regiment.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,

RALEIGH, April 14, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 5.]

The Board of Officers, detailed by General Orders, No. 4, dated February 11, 1892, consisting of Col. J. T. Anthony, Fourth Regiment; Col. A. L. Smith, Inspector General; Col. E. G. Harrell, Quartermaster General; Lieut. Col. J. F. Bruton, Second Regiment; Maj. S. W. Cramer, Naval Artillery; Capt. W. B. Rodman, Jr., First Regiment, and Captain B. S. Royster, Third Regiment, having revised the regulations of the State Guard and submitted their work to the Commander-in-Chief, the same is hereby approved, and is adopted for the guidance and government of all concerned. The work will be published in book form as the "Regulations of the North Carolina State Guard," and will be in full force from and after this date, and nothing contrary to the tenor of these Regulations will be enjoined by any officer of the State Guard.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office.

RALEIGH, May 20, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 6.]

A. A. Iseley, Second Lieutenant Company F, Third Regiment, with rank from April 6, 1892; vice Holt promoted.

Jacob W. Bergen, First Lieutenant Company D, Second Regiment, with rank from April 7, 1892; vice Odom resigned.

William A. Johnson, Major Second Regiment, with rank from May 2, 1892; vice Black resigned.

II. The Greenville Guards, Company B, First Regiment, having voluntarily disbanded, will be stricken from the rolls, and the commissions of the officers of said company are hereby revoked. The Quartermaster General will at once take charge of all State property in possession of this company.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, May 24, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 7.]

I. In order that the provisions of Section 3289 of The Code may be complied with, and under authority granted in Section 3257 of The Code, as amended by the Laws of 1887, Col. A. L. Smith, Inspector General of North Carolina, is hereby ordered to inspect the several companies of the State Guard, at his convenience, for 1892. Due notice of the date appointed for the inspection of each company must be given to commandant of said company, and also to regimental commanders. The results of such inspection shall be reported to this office.

II. The Inspector General will issue such circulars as he may deem necessary, giving full instructions in regard to all matters relating to inspections.

III. First Lieutenant W. E. Shipp, Tenth Cavalry United States Army, now on special duty with the North Carolina State Guard, will assist the Inspector General in the performance of his duties, inspecting such companies as that officer may desire.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, May 27, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 8.]

I. The annual encampments of the North Carolina State Guard for the current year will be by regiments and not as brigade.

II. The encampments will be held upon the State grounds at Wrightsville, that have been generously donated as a permanent camp by the citizens of Wilmington, and the camp will be known as Camp Holt, in honor of the Governor of the State.

III. The First and Second Regiments will encamp from July 21 to 29, inclusive, and the Third and Fourth Regiments from August 4 to 12, inclusive.

IV. Each regiment will have its own camp, camp-guards and guard lines, and each Colonel will be held strictly responsible for the conduct, work and discipline of his own command.

V. Regimental Commanders will issue all necessary orders for the government and discipline of their respective commands during the encampment thereof, including all such duties and ceremonies as the regulations and customs of the service prescribe and require, calling special attention to Article 18, State Guard Regulations. Copies of all orders must be forwarded to the Adjutant General as soon as issued.

VI. All officers and enlisted men of the several regiments will appear at Camp Holt on the evening of the first day of encampment of their respective regiments, in heavy marching order, and, immediately upon arrival, report to the Adjutant General for duty.

VII. The movement of each company will be directed by general or special orders, to be issued hereafter.

VIII. Troops will be furnished transportation by the State. The vouchers for such service must be made out on blank certificates supplied from this office. Transportation will be allowed regimental bands and company musicians (not to exceed two musicians or drummers for a company), also to one caterer and two servants to each company, to each regimental headquarters, and to each regimental band. Field and staff officers, with their servants, may be transported with the company at or nearest their place of residence, or on single tickets, as may be specially directed: and company commanders are required to report such persons in their certificates of transportation, but are strictly charged not to furnish transportation for anyone not provided for in this order.

IX. Regimental Commanders will ascertain and report to the Adjutant General as soon as possible, the number of men for whom transportation will be required for their respective regiments. Company commanders will make requisition upon the station agent at point of departure for transportation for their respective commands, using therefor the blank forms supplied from this office.

X. Companies must attend with at least sixty per cent. of their muster-rolls, and a failure to do this will be the cause of a company's being deprived of the annual appropriation.

XI. Company commanders will take no enlisted men to camp who cannot remain during the encampment of their regiment. They will ascertain this fact before furnishing transportation to encampment, as leave of absence to return home prior to close of encampment will be granted only upon Surgeon's certificate of disability, or by reason of serious illness or death in the officer's or soldier's family : and company commanders will be held responsible for all tickets issued.

XII. Floored tents, straw for bedding, fuel, water, ice and medicine will be provided, as well as ample hospital accommodations. Troops must furnish their own rations, the military fund being inadequate for such purpose.

XIII. Company commanders will see that the men carry as little baggage as possible : boxes and trunks will not be allowed in the company streets. No member of the Guard will be allowed to wear citizen's clothes while in camp, and officers and men found disobeying this will be liable to arrest.

XIV. Regimental commanders will report to this office the commissioned officers of their regiments who may not attend encampment, with all the facts regarding the cause of their absence. They will also forward to these headquarters in the field the "Daily Morning Reports" of their regiments.

XV. The Quartermaster General is charged with laying out the camp, erecting the tents, quartering the troops, issuing such supplies as are furnished by the State, and providing the necessary conveniences for the use and comfort of the troops. All property is in his charge, and he will see that it is not damaged or abused while in use. He will enter upon the active discharge of his duties at such time as he may be hereafter directed. Special orders will be issued by regimental commanders directing the Quartermasters of their respective regiments and a detail of two men from each company to report to the Quartermaster General at Camp Holt at such time as the latter officer shall direct.

XVI. The Inspector General will repair to Camp Holt at least one day previous to each encampment, for the purpose of inspecting and reporting upon the preparatory condition of the camps, and during encampments will carefully inspect and report upon the conduct of the same : all reports to be made direct to the Adjutant General.

XVII. The Surgeon General is charged with the care of the sick, the hospital, and sanitary condition of the camp and surroundings. He will enter upon active duty during encampments, and all Surgeons, Assistant Surgeons and Hospital Stewards will immediately upon their arrival at camp report to him for orders and instructions.

XVIII. The Chief of Staff is charged with the execution of this order, and to that end will enter upon active duty in making all necessary arrangements for the encampments, and will have a general supervision of the conduct and government of the same. All bills must be approved by him before being paid, and he will render a detailed statement of all expenses incurred and make a full report to the Commander-in-Chief.

XIX. First Lieutenant W. E. Shipp, Tenth Cavalry, United States Army, and such other army officers as may be detailed to assist him, will be on duty during both encampments for the purpose of giving practical instructions in Drills, Guard Duty, Rifle Practice, Heavy Gun Drill and in all camp duties, and as officers of the United States Army they will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

XX. The encampments will be visited by the Commander-in-Chief, and the troops will be reviewed by him on such days as may hereafter be announced.

XXI. While strict discipline must be enforced, ample time will be allowed for recreation and enjoyment. Nothing will be left undone to secure the comfort and contribute to the reasonable pleasure of the men consistent with the object of these encampments. Good order must be maintained at all times, and to that end all officers are strictly charged to have anyone arrested who may be acting in an unsoldierly or ungentlemanly manner. Every member of the Guard, it is hoped, will take pride and pleasure in doing his duty faithfully and well towards making these encampments a success in every particular, a credit to the soldiers of North Carolina, and a thing of real value to the State.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office.

RALEIGH, May 28, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, No. 9.]

For the year beginning December 1, 1892, the scope of the examination for officers of the line, under Article 5, paragraph 41, State Guard Regulations, will be as follows:

Manual of Guard Duty.

Drill Regulations (candidate's arm only).

Small-Arms Firing Regulations, to embrace paragraphs 21 to 127 inclusive, Gallery Practice and Article 26, State Guard Regulations, with such paragraphs of the Firing Regulations as are referred to in this Article.

State Guard Regulations.

The examinations will, in general, be written, oral and practical.

1. To each written question a numerical value shall be attached, and the Board will credit each answer according to its nature.

2. To each exercise in parade examination, and the attending oral questions, when asked, the Board will, in like manner, allot a numerical value and credit each test according to its merit. In subjects exclusively, or almost entirely oral, such as Small Arms Firing Regulations, a numerical value will be given each subject, and a credit given on the general result of all the answers therein.

3. The marking of all questions, whether oral or written, and of all practical demonstrations, will be determined by taking the average of the separate markings by each member of the Board.

4. No candidate will be passed who shall not obtain an average of sixty per cent. in all written questions propounded, and the same average in practical and oral examinations considered collectively.

SUBHEADS FOR WRITTEN EXAMINATION :

FOR LIEUTENANTS OF COMPANIES.

MANUAL OF GUARD DUTY.

Rosters.

The Officer of the Day.

The Officer of the Guard.

The Sergeant of the Guard.

Orders for Sentinels on Post (paragraphs 169 to 233).

Miscellaneous (paragraphs 234 to 242).

Miscellaneous Subjects (paragraphs 278 to 280).

Stable Guards (for cavalry officers only).

DRILL REGULATIONS.

For Cavalry.

General Principles.

School of the Soldier.

School of the Troop.

Extended Order (to include the troop).

Advance and Rear Guards, Outposts, Marches, Camping.

Stable Duty.

For Infantry.

General Principles.

School of the Soldier.

School of the Company.

Extended Order (to include the Company).

Advance and Rear Guards, Outposts, Marching, Camping.

FOR CAPTAINS OF COMPANIES AND BATTALION ADJUTANTS :

MANUAL OF GUARD DUTY.

Same as for Lieutenants of Companies.

DRILL REGULATIONS.

For Cavalry.

Same as for Lieutenants of Companies.

For Infantry.

Same as for Lieutenants of Companies, with the addition of School of the Battalion and extended order (to include the Battalion).

FOR FIELD OFFICERS AND REGIMENTAL ADJUTANTS:

MANUAL OF GUARD DUTY.

Same as for other Officers, with the addition of duties of Commanding Officer for Field Officers.

DRILL REGULATIONS.

Same as for Captains of Companies, with the addition of evolutions of the Regiment, extended order to include the Regiment, and from paragraph 663 to paragraph 753, inclusive, omitting from 703 to 732, inclusive.

In addition to the above subjects, all Adjutants will be subject to examination on Guard Mounting.

When no practical or oral examination is given, twenty questions will be asked in Drill Regulations, otherwise ten questions. Ten questions will be asked in Manual of Guard duty.

ORAL AND PRACTICAL EXAMINATION :

In addition to the theoretical written examination, the knowledge of each candidate will be tested in drills and such other practical work as may be deemed expedient by the Board.

When possible, candidates will be examined on the parade in actual command of troops, and as far as practicable, such examination shall take place during the annual encampment.

The candidate will be required to act as instructor, and in addition to giving the words of command will be required to explain each movement before it is performed. When practical and oral examination is given, the subjects will be selected from those embraced under the sub-head of written examination.

Company officers and Adjutants shall be practically and orally examined in Firing Regulations within the limits previously prescribed in this order, the principal object of the examination being to determine the ability of company officers to impart instruction and to determine the familiarity of Adjutants with the preparation of reports, etc.

Examination in State Guard Regulations will be oral in regard to the duties which the candidate may be required to perform, and especially in regard to interior economy and to procedure when called in aid to the civil authority.

Oral questions shall be embodied in the proceedings of boards only in the event of a candidate being pronounced deficient in consequence thereof, otherwise a simple statement that the candidate was questioned as required, made a certain percentage, and was found proficient, is sufficient to make of record.

The Board will enumerate in the record of proceedings the exercises performed in the practical examination, and will state clearly whether the candidate is able to impart instruction in an effective manner, especially in the case of company officers.

Commanding officers of camps or other places where boards may be convened will be advised to comply, as far as possible, with requests for troops and material.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, June 14, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 10.]

General Orders, No. 6, series of 1890, is hereby revoked.

The Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry shall hereafter be designated as an "unattached company," and will comply with all orders, regulations and laws governing the State Guard, except as specially exempted by Act of the General Assembly of 1819.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, June 17, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 11.]

The following Regulations for the annual encampment will be observed, and all orders by commanding officers of regiments will conform to them :

Reveille will not be sounded earlier than 5:30 A. M.

All morning drills and ceremonies will be concluded by 10 A. M., and the first call for afternoon drills or ceremonies will not be sounded earlier than 5 P. M.; but target practice and schools for theoretical instruction will be held as most convenient.

The drill regulations being new to the troops, instructions will be confined to the simpler and more elementary exercises, and difficult manœuvres in battalion or regimental drills will not be attempted. Particular attention will be paid to extended order drill and instruction in fire discipline and use of cover, as laid down in the drill regulations. Practice will also be given in advance and rear guard and in outpost duty.

The encampment being for the purpose of practical instruction, there should be no attempt at display at the expense of useful work. The two regiments in camp at one time will alternate in daily dress-parades, no parade being held on Sunday. The regiment with the senior Colonel shall have the first parade, and each shall hold three parades if possible. Regimental commanders will see that their camps are neatly kept, and each will establish a uniform method for the arrangement of articles in tents, etc. Loose straw will not be permitted for use as bedding. In every case in which this is done, orders will immediately be given for its collection and return to the Quartermaster General. Straw for bedding will be used only by men who bring bed-sacks for that purpose. It is advised that troops bring to camp light cots, suitable for use without mattresses. Transportation for same will be furnished by the State.

All troops who have them will carry their dress and undress uniforms, blankets and leggins.

Guard duty will be performed in strict conformity with the requirements of the Guard Manual. Sentinels will be posted at all times, and men should not be allowed to leave or enter camp when not on duty, except by duly prescribed entrances. Each camp guard will contain an officer of the day, two officers of the guard, one sergeant, three corporals, one musician and the necessary number of privates.

Commanding officers will establish rules for absences from camp, except that no absence for more than twenty-four hours will be permitted without authority from the Adjutant General.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief :

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters,
RALEIGH, June 24, 1892.

Shipp, relieved, is hereby assigned to duty in the Adjutant General's Department, and will assist in the Inspector General's and other Departments whenever necessary. He will also instruct all officers and men of the State Guard in the New Drill Regulations and in Small Arms Practice, visiting the several companies at their stations for this purpose.

Company commanders are required to use every effort to have as full attendance of their respective commands as possible whenever he may visit them, giving him all the assistance desired; and all the officers and men are urged to render him a hearty co operation in the performance of the duties imposed upon him, and as an officer of the United States he will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, November 10, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 21.]

I. The biennial election of Field Officers will be held at 12 o'clock, noon, on the first Thursday in December next, in accordance with section 3286 of The Code.

II. For such election the commissioned officers of the companies of the several regiments are hereby warned to assemble on the day above named at the following places, respectively: First Regiment, Raleigh; Second Regiment, Wilmington; Third Regiment, Durham; Fourth Regiment, Charlotte.

III. Each regiment will elect a Colonel and a Lieutenant Colonel, and each battalion of the respective regiments will elect a Major.

IV. The commissioned officers of the several Divisions of the First Battalion Naval Artillery will assemble on the day above named in Fayetteville for the purpose of electing a Lieutenant Commander for said Battalion.

V. These elections must be held in accordance with Article IV, State Guard Regulations, and the proceedings promptly reported to this office.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief:

JAMES D. GLENN,
Adjutant General.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
General Headquarters, Adjutant General's Office,
RALEIGH, November 11, 1892.

[GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 22.]
